POSSIBLE REPRIEVE FOR THE GUN MEN.

New Witnesses' Testimony May Lead to Another Trial.

Affidavits to be Laid Before Glynn and Supreme Court Justice.

NEW YORK, April 10.—Counsel for the four gun men awaiting execution for the Rosenthal murder announced this afternoon that they had found two new witnesses whose testimony they believed would gain a reprieve for their clients and might lead to a new trial. These witnesses, they said, had remained in the background for fear of their lives, but they came forward with affidavits today, because they believed that unless they told what they knew the gun men would go to the electric chair.

Lionel Kringle, one of the prisoners' attorneys, said the affidavits of these witnesses would be submitted to a supreme court justice this afternoon or tonight, and also laid before Governor Glynn. On account of the Good Friday holiday, no courts were in session today and the attorneys said that they would have to hun for a supreme court justice at his home.

An affidavit purporting to establish an alibi for "Dago Frank" Cirofici, a note from Frank Moss, former assistant district attorney, attacking the credibility of two men who were witnesses at the trials of Charles Becker and the gun men, and an alleged discrepancy in the decision of the court of appeals which reversed Becker's conviction, were the points about which counsel for the gun men, doomed to die Monday for the murder of Herman Rosenthal centered their fight today.

The affidavit sbat of "Pinkie" Reo, a special officer in a Harlem dance hall who swears that he saw "Dago Frank" far from the scene of the murder about the time it was committed, was rushed to Governor Glynn by special messenger. Notice of it was incorporated in memoranda previously placed before the governor.

The note, written by Frank Moss, concerning the two witnesses, Luban and Margolis, was today placed in the hands of C. G. F. Wahle, the gunmen's chief counsel. How it would be used, possibly for court action, was explained by Wahle's partner, Lionell Kringle.

"Mr. Moss's note," he said, "shows that he did not believe Luban was telling the truth, yet he placed him on the stand as a witness. It also shows that Moss did not believe Luban after he had testified. If an assistant district attorney did not believe his own witness, certainly nobody else would believe the man. Mr. Whale and myself will get this note before the governor as soon as possible. If we again fail to move the governor to change his decision then we will take the whole matter before some justice of the supreme court."

MADE BY COUNSEL'S WIFE.

Another Appeal for Respite for the Four Gun Men Denied.

ALBANY, N. Y., April 10.—Another appeal for a respite of 90 days for the four gun men was denied today by Governor Glynn. It was made by Mrs. William Vanamee of Newburgh, wife of one of the gun men's counsel, who was prevented by illness from being present in person. Mrs. Vanamee was accompanied by the mother of Louis Rosenberg ("Lefty Louie").

FUNERAL TO BE MONDAY.

Legislature Adjourns Out of Respect to Governor Draper.

BOSTON, April 10.—The funeral of former Governor Eben S. Draper, who died at Greenville, S. C., last night, will take place next Monday, April 13. Services will be held in King's Chapel in Boston in the forenoon and in the Memorial Church in Hopedale in the afternoon. The interment will be in the family lot at Hopedale, where Mrs. Draper is buried.

The body of the former governor will arrive here Saturday and will be taken to the Draper home on Beacon street.

In a special message Governor Walsh called the attention of the legislature to the death of the former governor and after the appointment of committees to attend the funeral both branches adjourned out of respect.

Other members of the committee will be Representatives John Carbery and Walter L. Collins, both Democrats of the Milford district, which includes Hopedale. The senate too similar action, the committee being President Calvin Coolidge and Senator W. A. L. Baselry of Uxbridge.

PASSES A QUIET NIGHT.

King Gustave of Sweden Recovering from Effects of Operation.

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, April 10.—King Gustave was said today to be making satisfactory progress in recovering from the effects of the operation performed on him yesterday for ulceration of the stomach. He suffered some pain, which, however, did not interfere with the cicatrization of the wound. The king was able to take water and tea without any ill effects."

COUNT OKUMA NAMED.

Recommended to the Emperor for the Office of Premier.

TOKIO, Japan, April 10.—Count Shigenobu Okuma, former foreign minister, was recommended to the emperor today by the elder statesmen, for the office of premier, in place of Count Gombei Yamammoto, whose cabinet resigned in consequence of the naval scandals connected with the receipt of illicit commissions by officers.

The coronation of the emperor, which had been fixed for November 10 next, has been postponed until 1916, owing to the death of the dowager empress.

The reason for the prolonged delay of the coronation is that the seed of the rice used in the sacred ceremony must not be ripened during the period of national mourning.

SIGHTED BY THE KYLE.

Seal Pelts Off St. Mary's Bay Probably From Southern Cross.

ST. JOHN'S, Newfoundland, April 10.—Seal pelts, thought to have come from the missing sealing Southern Cross, were sighted today 70 miles south of St. Mary's bay by steamer Kyle, which has been searching the coast for a week. The pelts are skins which have been roughly removed and to which considerable fat usually adheres, causing them to float readily. It is believed that they either were washed from the decks of the Southern Cross or floated to the surface after she went down. None of the sealing fleet which came in last week from the St. Lawrence grounds, where the Southern Cross had been seal hunting, lost any pelts off the southern coast.

The Kyle reported by wireless that she would continue the search in the vicinity, although the weather was foggy at the time. St. Mary's bay is on the southern coast.

OIL PROPERTIES IN TORREON DAMAGED.

Fighting Continues, a Number of Refugees Seeking Warships.

Heavy Firing at Tampico; Rebels Capture Dona Cecila and Arbolgrande.

WASHINGTON, April 10.—Continued fighting at Tampico, with great damage to the valuable oil properties there, was reported to the State and Navy Departments today in despatches from the warships on the Mexican coast. An official statement at the State Department described the situation as to the oil. "Several oil tanks have ben struck, one is on fire, and oil is runing into the river. A number of refugees are on the warships."

The fighting at Tampico was described as heavy, with the rebels in possession of Dona Cecila and Arbolgranade.

Rear Admiral Fletcher reported that Rear Admiral Mayo had delivered another letetr to General Zaragosa about the shots fired into the Pierce oil plant from Federal gunboats. Grave fears are felt here that there mayh be whole sale destruction of the properties. Assurance was received that all Aemrican women and children have been gathered into places of safety.

Latest reports to the Navy Department were summarized in this statement: "At 3 p. m. Thursday, Admiral Mayo reported from Tampico to Admiral Fletcher at Vera Cruz that there had been but desultory firing since daybreak. Two women have been reported hanged for attempting to release prisoners from the Cuartel. A rebel prisoner has been reported hanged for having bullets in his possession.

"At 10 p. m. Admiral Mayo reported further that there was a lull in the fighting in the afternoon. The Vera Cruz moved up to the vicinity of Tolisi road at 3 p. m., and did some firing. There was also fighting in trenches near Altamira. Admiral Mayo has delivered another letter to General Zaragosa relating to damage by gunboats to the Pierce oil plant. An oil tank at Arbol Grande was on fire at 8:30. Sixty women and children have been taken on board the Des Moines and all American women and children have been up from points on the river below the city, except at Lubarra. Those who were there have gone on board German tanker Osago. Admiral Mayo emphasizes that refugees desire refuge, not removal."

Secretary Daniels said this morning that he had not been informed of the issuance by Admiral Mayo of any ultimatum to the Federal commander at Tampico to cease firing from the gunboat into the city.

ONE AMERICAN ON THE LIST.

Suspected Huerta Sympathizere to be Deported from Cananea.

DOUGLAS, Ariz., April 10.—A despatch from Naco says that the Sonora "expatriation committee," headed by General Ygnacio Pesqueira, arrived at Cananea yesterday and made out a list of 100 or more suspected Huerta sympathizers to be deported. The name of one American, J. M. Gibbs, a commission merchant now said to be in Los Angeles, appears on the list. All the rest are said to be Mexicans.

Reports say that large numbers of Mexicans in the towns south of here are preparing to anticipate the committee by leaving the country, on the theory that they will be able to return quietly and without molestation, which would be impossible if they were officially deported.

HAIL AND WINDSTORMS.

Much Damage to Vegetables and Fruit in Central Florida.

OCALA, Florida, April 10.—Hail and windstorms, accompanied by a sharp drop in temperature last night, did much damage to vegetables and citrus fruit crops throughout central Florida. Orange groves and melon and tomato fields suffered severely. Southern Florida, where the bulk of the peninsula's citrus fruits are produced, experienced only a cool rain. Frost in the state was confined to the northwestern section, where crops were not sufficiently matured to suffer materially.

The heaviest loss was in this section, which was swept by a storm of cyclonic proportions. Houses were unroofed, windows broken and several orange groves destroyed. The melon crops in this and adjoining counties, the centre of the melon belt of Florid, is believed to bealmost at total loss.

FROST ONLY IN LOWLANDS.

Small Damage to Fruit in Georgia's Peach Belt.

MACON, Ga., April 10.—Damage to fruit in Georgia's peach belt, after last night's low temperature, was small, according to advices received today. A brisk wind protected fruit trees on high ground, and frost was experienced only in the lowlands.

LAWRENCE, Mass., April 10.—Twenty-five girl burlers and menders at the Plymouth mills, who struck Monday because of dissatisfaction over a new wage scale on rugs, and returned yesterday after a compromise offer had been made by the mill management quit work again today, claiming that they had given their promised rate a fair trial and had decided that it meant so large a reduction in their weekly wages that they could not accept it. The girls declare that they will not return now unless the old scale is restored.

OIL PROPERTIES IN TORREON DAMAGED.

Fighting Continues, a Number of Refugees Seeking Warships.

Heavy Firing at Tampico; Rebels Capture Dona Cecila and Arbolgrande.

WASHINGTON, April 10.—Continued fighting at Tampico, with great damage to the valuable oil properties there, was reported to the State and Navy Departments today in despatches from the warships on the Mexican coast. An official statement at the State Department described the situation as to the oil. "Several oil tanks have ben struck, one is on fire, and oil is running into the river. A number of refugees are on the warships."

The fighting at Tampico was described as heavy, with the rebels in possession of Dona Cecila and Arbolgranade.

Rear Admiral Fletcher reported that Rear Admiral Mayo had delivered another letetr to General Zaragosa about the shots fired into the Pierce oil plant from Federal gunboats. Grave fears are felt here that there mayn be whole sale destruction of the properties. Assurance was received that all American women and children have been gathered into places of safety.

Latest reports to the Navy Department were summarized in this statement: "At 3 p. m. Thursday, Admiral Mayo reported from Tampico to Admiral Fletcher at Vera Cruz that there had been but desultory firing since daybreak. Two women have been reported hanged for attempting to release prisoners from the Cuartel. A rebel prisoner has been reported hanged for having bullets in his possession.

"At 10 p. m. Admiral Mayo reported further that there was a lull in the fighting in the afternoon. The Vera Cruz moved up to the vicinity of Tolisi road at 3 p. m., and did some firing. There was also fighting in trenches near Altamira. Admiral Mayo has delivered another letter to General Zaragosa relating to damage by gunboats to the Pierce oil plant. An oil tank at Arbol Grande was on fire at 8:30. Sixty women and children have been taken on board the Des Moines and all American women and children have been up from points on the river below the city, except at Labarra. Those who were there have gone on board German tanker Osago. Admiral Mayo emphasizes that refugees desire refuge, not removal."

Secretary Daniels said this morning that he had not been informed of the issuance by Admiral Mayo of any ultimatum to the Federal commander at Tampico to cease firing from the gunboat into the city.

ONE AMERICAN ON THE LIST.

Suspected Huerta Sympathizere to be Deported from Cananea.

DOUGLAS, Ariz., April 10.—A despatch from Naco says that the Sonora "expatriation committee," headed by General Ygnacio Pesqueira, arrived at Cananea yesterday and made out a list of 100 or more suspected Huerta sympathizers to be deported. The name of one American, J. M. Gibbs, a commission merchant now said to be in Los Angeles, appears on the list. All the rest are said to be Mexicans.

Reports say that large numbers of Mexicans in the towns south of here are preparing to anticipate the committee by leaving the country, on the theory that they will be able to return quietly and without molestation, which would be impossible if they were officially deported.

HAIL AND WINDSTORMS.

Much Damage to Vegetables and Fruit in Central Florida.

OCALA, Florida, April 10.—Hail and windstorms, accompanied by a sharp drop in temperature last night, did much damage to vegetables and citrus fruit crops throughout central Florida. Orange groves and melon and tomato fields suffered severely. Southern Florida, where the bulk of the peninsula's citrus fruits are produced, experienced only a cool rain. Frost in the state was confined to the northwestern section, where crops were not sufficiently matured to suffer materially.

The heaviest loss was in this section, which was swept by a storm of cyclonic proportions. Houses were unroofed, windows broken and several orange groves destroyed. The melon crops in this and adjoining counties, the centre of the melon belt of Florid, is believed to be almost at total loss.

FROST ONLY IN LOWLANDS.

Small Damage to Fruit in Georgia's Peach Belt.

MACON, Ga., April 10.—Damage to fruit in Georgia's peach belt, after last night's low temperature, was small, according to advices received today. A brisk wind protected fruit trees on high ground, and frost was experienced only in the lowlands.

ANNUAL EASTER MIGRATION.

Hundreds of Excursionists from Canada Reach New York.

NEW YORK, April 10.—The annual Easter migration from Canada has begun and already hundreds of Canadians have arrived in the city. The number will be increased today by the addition of thousands. Ten thousand excursionists were reported to have left Montreal, Ottawa, Hamilton and Toronto yesterday on their way to New York. Some of them will go to Atlantic City. Of those who have reached New York, many have come from western Canada.

TWO TO ONE FOR ROGERS.

Judges Give Local Team Verdict in Debate With East Greenwich.

Decision for Negative Side on Question of Extension of the Suffrage to Women

In the first interscholastic debate ever held in this city further honors went to the Rogers High School when its team triumphed over East Greenwich on the suffrage question Thursday evening before an enthusiastic crowd which well filled the assembly hall. The six main speeches were well prepared and admirably given loud and continued applause following each while the Rogers team received a great ovation when it won. Since it has been defeated once in the [illegible] league the Newport team cannot win the cup offered but can tie for first place in case East Greenwich defeats English High [illegible] East Greenwich.

[illegible] Rogers upholding the negative side of the question of granting the franchise to women won by a close margin, two judges being favor while one was against, all three stating that the debate was closely contested all the way, the arguments being excellent. East Greenwich was represented by three experienced debaters who knew how to bring out the important points and also the proper manner of delivery, all three talking in a convincing manner.

Mr William R Harvey chairman of the Representative Council was chairman during the evening while the judges were Rev A C McGilton of [illegible], Judge Hugh B Baker of New[port] and Rev J J Wells of Middletown. By a new arrangement the [judges] were allowed to enclose their decisions in envelopes all three of which were handed to the chairman who opened them and announced the verdict. The first envelope opened stated that the negative had [won] the debate [and] that the second announced that the affirmative of East Greenwich side had won the verdict and amid intense excitement Chairman Harvey read the third ballot which gave Rogers the victory.

On the winning team were Ivan S Coggeshall, Walter B Clarke and Samuel [illegible], with William H Levy as alternate and Harold [illegible] as manager. The East Greenwich Academy was represented by Edwin Anderson, Philip A Ahern, Carl D Roun and Charles P Perkins who was the alternate. During the intermissions a musical entertainment and a reading were given.

Chairman Harvey took the floor a little after 8 o'clock announcing as the subject "Resolved That suffrage should be extended to women in the United States." He introduced the first speaker for the affirmative Edwin Anderson of East Greenwich.

Anderson laid great stress on the fact that women are more fitted for the vote at present than they were [60] years ago. At the latter time the speaker said there was but one woman's college in the country, [today there] are [1]0 then there was but one woman physician, now there are [illegible] 000. Then there were no women lawyers, now there are [illegible] 000. Sixty years ago the number of professions open to women was limited, now [illegible] in which over [6]000 000 women are earning their own living. The speaker said woman is the equal of man educationally since there are more women graduates from colleges and secondary schools and [wom]an can support herself.

[illegible] East Greenwich man then said the ballot should be granted women [for] economic reasons since the entire business and commercial world would be in a state of chaos were it not for [women]. The ballot is the only efficient protection of [illegible] and [wom]an needs it to protect herself and everything connected with her. [Th]is is an issue which must be decided [by] the progressive spirit of the age [illegible] which in its proper enlightenment cannot exclude half the people from [th]e ballot [illegible] of fundamental [illegible].

The first speaker for the Rogers team was [illegible] Coggeshall who [illegible] [illegible] or the cunning of unscrupulous politicians. The political stream is already too much muddled by a herd of clumsy animals wallowing about in it and unless she can quiet the stream and precipitate the sediment the waters will become more muddied and more polluted.

Only one woman in 800 desires the vote. Why have the suffragists ignored the challenge of the National Association Opposed to Woman Suffrage which states emphatically that if the suffragists can produce enough evidence to show that women wish to vote the antis will close up shop? Why have the suffragists ignored this challenge? Simply because they cannot produce the necessary evidence. The women do not desire to vote."

Carl D Roun last of the East Greenwich speakers debated with considerable feeling, beginning by saying the subject is a serious one and cannot be debated humorously. He said the question is the progressive demand of the age. Opponents lay much importance on the fact that women were given the vote immoral women would no good influence. To every immoral woman there are 100 good women and for every immoral woman there are at least two men responsible for her downfall. Foreign countries which have granted equal suffrage either in whole or part are the cleanest in the world.

Roun had a map of the United States and on which he traced the progress of suffrage through this country showing the remarkable victories gained by women in the past few years and the number of states supporting equal suffrage. Wherever it has been tried suffrage has proved a success and it is the demand of the nation.

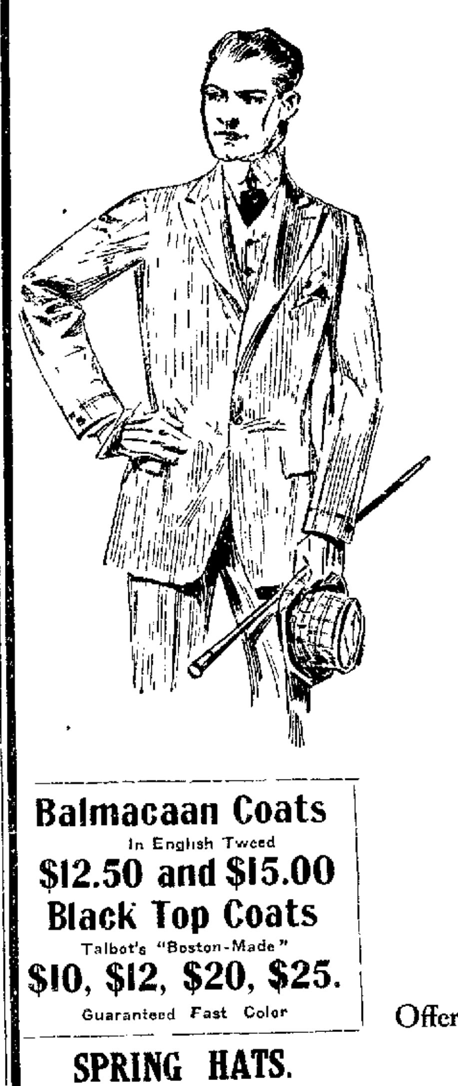

Samuel Frant the last speaker had many facts which won applause tending to show how woman suffrage has failed in the states tried. A woman in an equal suffrage state has few of the rights granted women elsewhere. In such states women are sometimes supposed to support their husbands and in Colorado six men obtained divorces from their wives because of non support. Furthermore a wife is not entitled to any share of her husband's wages whereas in other states a certain percentage is set aside for her. After Frant had closed he was greeted by the longest applause of the evening.

During the intermission in preparing for the rebuttals the Concert Trio composed of Karl H Kalquist [on] the violin, Louis R Chase on the flute and Harold O Johnson a companist rendered three musical selections which were received with applause.

In the rebuttals Coggeshall opened for the Rogers team and Ahern for East Greenwich. It was on Coggeshall's rebuttal that the debate was decided as the Rogers man broke down every argument East Greenwich had advanced and then went on to quote the Bible which states that woman cannot assume the privileges of man.

While the judges were going out to prepare their decision the Concert Trio gave two more musical selections after which Mr I P Webber afforded much merriment when he gave a dialogue on how an old man feels about modern singing and modern religion. Mr Webber was applauded so much that he responded with two more stories.

TWO TO ONE FOR ROGERS.

Judges Give Local Team Verdict in Debate With East Greenwich.

Decision for Negative Side on Question of Extension of the Suffrage to Women.

In the first interscholastic debate ever held in this city further honors went to the Rogers High School, when its team triumphed over East Greenwich on the suffrage question Thursday evening before an enthusiastic crowd which well filled the assembly hall. The six main speeches were well prepared and admirably given, loud and continued applause following each, while the Rogers team received a great ovation when it won. Since it has been defeated once in the triangular league the Newport team cannot win the cup offered, but can tie for first place in case East Greenwich defeats English High at East Greenwich.

Rogers, upholding the negative side of the question of granting the franchise to women, won by a close margin, two judges being favor, while one was against, all three stating that the debate was closely contested all the way, the arguments being excellent. East Greenwich was represented by three experienced debaters, who knew how to bring out the important points, and also the proper manner of delivery, all three talking in a convincing manner.

Mr. William R. Harvey, chairman of the Representative Council, was chairman during the evening, while the judges were Rev. A. C. McGilton of Bristol, Judge Hugh B. Baker of Newport and Rev. E. E. Wells of Middletown. By a new arrangement they were allowed to enclose their decisions in envelopes, all three of which were handed to the chairman, who opened them and announced the verdict. The first envelope opened stated that the negative had a little the better of it, the second announced that the affirmative or East Greenwich side had won the verdict, and amid tense excitement Chairman Harvey read the third ballot, which gave Rogers the victory.

On the winning team were Ivan S. Coggeshall, Walter B. Clarke and Samuel Frant, with William H. Leys as alternate and Harold Greason as manager. The East Greenwich Academy was represented by Edwin Anderson, Philip A. Ahern, Carl D. Roun and Charles P. Perkins, who was the alternate. During the intermissions a musical entertainment and a reading were given.

Chairman Harvey took the floor a little after 8 o'clock, announcing as the subject: "Resolved, That suffrage should be extended to women in the United States." He introduced the first speaker for the affirmative, Edwin Anderson of East Greenwich.

Anderson laid great stress on the fact that women are more fitted for the vote at present than they were 60 years ago. At the latter time the speaker said there was but one woman's college in the country, today there are 150; then there was but one woman physician, now there are 8,000; then there were no women lawyers; now there are 3,000. Sixty years ago the number of professions open to women was limited, now there are 300, in which over 7,000,000 women are earning their own living.

The speaker said woman is the equal of man educationally, since there are more women graduates from colleges and secondary schools, and woman can support herself.

The East Greenwich man then said the ballot should be granted women for economic reasons, since the entire business and commercial world would be in a state of chaos were it not for them. The ballot is the only efficient protection of equality, and woman needs it to protect herself and everything connected with her. The Housewives' League in Providence caused the recent investigation of the milk scandal in that city, and if women could accomplish that without the ballot there is no end to what she could accomplish if she had the vote. It is an issue which must be decided by the progressive spirit of the age, which in its proper enlightenment cannot exclude half the people from the ballot. In short, it is a realization of fundamental principles.

The first speaker on the Rogers team was Ivan S. Coggeshall, who outlined the general plan of the negative side. Coggeshall had one of the best speeches of the evening, which earned him much applause. He said in part: "Woman's arguments in demanding the franchise are unwarranted, first, because she has no right whatsoever to the ballot. My second reason is that, if her vote were granted, it would not better conditions, moral, social, political or industrial. Moral conditions, in the first place, are regulated in the present day by the efficiency of the executive force. There are enough laws on the statute books to make archangels of every one of us; the trouble is that these laws which we have cannot be enforced.

"Woman's reasons for demanding the ballot are invalid because she has no legal right to the ballot, no right as a citizen, as an equal of man, as a property owner, as a taxpayer, or as a superior moral being, and also because she cannot improve conditions through the ballot either moral, [illegible] industrial or political."

Philip A. Ahern, speaking second for the affirmative, was probably the most experienced debater on either side and gave his arguments in a clear, level voice, piling up fact after fact. Ahern said the vital needs of the nation demand woman suffrage. The [high] moral standard of women voters tends to elevation of politics, as shown in Kansas, where the women [demanded] persons of honesty, [sobriety] and good moral character for the state offices and stood not so much for parties as for principle. Dr. Wiley the famous pure food expert, said better food laws and better enforcement of these laws could be had if women were allowed to vote. [They] are vitally interested.

Regarding social welfare Ahern said an eight-hour working law for women is enforced only in the suffrage [illegible] states. In the protection of children, child labor and illiteracy have [illegible] The ballot aids in the protection of young men and women. When women were allowed to vote in California, the [illegible] in that state increased [illegible] since 1911. Women are the greatest sufferers from the ravages of drink, [illegible] the vote to wipe [out] this evil. Equal suffrage is the [demand] of the age.

[Walter] B. Clarke, second of the [Rogers] speakers, talked rapidly, and [illegible] remarks, which somewhat [illegible] keeping the [audience] in a constant state of laughter. He said: Women have a purely [illegible] conception of the theories [of government]. They forget that if [they] be made or persuaded to vote [one] way or that they too can be made to do the same by the flattery or the cunning of unscrupulous politicians. The political stream is already too much muddied by a herd of clumsy animals wallowing about in it, and unless she can quiet the stream and precipitate the sediment the waters will become more muddled and more polluted.

"Only one woman in 800 desires the vote. Why have the suffragists ignored the challenge of the National Association Opposed to Woman Suffrage, which states emphatically that if the suffragists can produce enough evidence to show that women wish to vote, the antis will close up shop? Why have the suffragists ignored this challenge? Simply because they cannot produce the necessary evidence. The women do not desire to vote."

Carl D. Roun, last of the East Greenwich speakers, debated with considerable feeling, beginning by saying the subject is a serious one, and cannot be debated humorously. He said the question is the progressive demand of the age. Opponents lay much importance on the fact that, if women were given the vote, immoral women would wield no good influence. For every immoral woman there are 100 good women, and for every immoral woman there are at least two men responsible for her downfall. Foreign countries which have granted equal suffrage, either in whole or part are the cleanest in the world.

Furthermore, a wife is not entitled to any share of her husband's wages, whereas in other states a certain percentage is set aside for her. After Frant had closed he was greeted by the longest applause of the evening.

During the intermission in preparing for the rebuttals the Concert Trio, composed of Karl H. Kalquist on the violin, Louis R. Chase on the flute, and Harold O. Johnson, accompanist, rendered three musical selections which were received with applause.

In the rebuttals Coggeshall opened for the Rogers team, and Ahern for East Greenwich. It was on Coggeshall's rebuttal that the debate was decided, as the Rogers man broke down every argument East Greenwich had advanced, and then went on to quote the Bible, which states that woman cannot assume the privileges of man.

While the judges were going out to prepare their decision the Concert Trio gave two more musical selections, after which Mr. F. P. Webber afforded much merriment when he gave a dialogue on how an old man feels about modern singing and modern religion. Mr. Webber was applauded so much that he responded with two more stories.

Though there has been no expression from the White House as yet, friends of Secretary McAdoo and Miss Eleanor Randolph Wilson, who are to be married soon, believe the wedding will be a quiet family affair. Washington society is daily expecting an announcement of the date, and some who profess to be well informed think it will be April 30 or early in May Should the wedding take place so early it is more than probable that the invitation list will be small.

THE BLESSED ROAD.

(Charles Buxton Going, in the Century.)

Three roads led out to Calvary
The first was broad and straight.
That Pilate and great Caiaphas
Might ride thereon in state.

The second was the felons' road,
Cruel and hard to tread
For those who bore the cross's load,
For those whose footsteps bled

The third road slunk through mean defiles,
Fearing the open sky,
And Judas crept the dreadful miles
To Calvary thereby.

The highroad up to Calvary
Was blotted, from the land;
Where Judas hid, the jackal cries
By thorn-cursed drifts of sand

But that poor road the felons went—
How fair it now appears,
Smoothed wide by myriads penitent
And flower set by their tears!

OFFICERS IN A SQUABBLE.

Disagreement Over Legislation for Relief of Naval Personnel.

The boards of officers detailed by the Secretary of the Navy to draft legislation for the relief of the naval personnel are in a squabble over details of the measure tentatively prepared There has been a disagreement between line and staff officers on the proposal that staff officers be promoted with their running mates of the line It was discovered that if this were carried out without modification there would be high ranking officers corresponding to rear admirals and captains in the staff, out of all proportion to the numerical strength of the different branches. Secretary Daniels refused to approve the staff corps measure, and it has been necessary so to change it as to reduce the proportion of officers to attain the highest grades in the staff corps

The difficulties encountered by the line officers are due to the probable cost. The maintenance of a commissioned personnel of 2,000 officers, properly distributed in various grades, including four vice admirals, will necessitate the discharge with a year's pay of the surplus number of graduating midshipmen, year by year. It will also be necessary to have an active reserve list of 700 officers who are not in line of promotion, but will be available for shore duty only This would cost an additional $2,000 000 for five years Mr Daniels has asked the line officers' board to go over their plan and see if something can be accomplished without materially increasing expense The line officers are not disposed to regard this phase of the situation favorably, and some favor adhering to their original draft in that event, Secretary Daniels may refuse to send it to the Capitol

Make a cornstarch blanc mange, using three rather large tablespoonfuls of cornstarch to the pint of milk; add a grain of salt, sugar to taste and cook for half an hour. Have ready egg shells which have been saved for the past week or two; at the time of emptying they should be thoroughly rinsed and cleaned. Rinse again in cold water. Boil gently until tender, changing the water four or five times to extract the bitterness. Drain and cut in straws. Make a syrup with equal quantities of water and sugar. When boiling, add straws and draw back where they will keep just below the boiling point until clear. Drain and boil down the syrup until it will spin a thread an inch long when dropped from the tines of a fork. Add peels and boil slowly for 10 minutes, then lift out, a few at a time. Drain and roll in granulated sugar, spread out on a warm platter, also sprinkled with sugar, and let stand in a warm (not hot) place until dried. Use dessert plates, making nests with peels, and in each carefully place one or two of the peeled blanc mange eggs.

....A cedar chest, lettered in gold, was the gift of the Huntington, Ind., Commercial Association to Helen Dinsmore Huntington and Vincent Astor, who are to be married in New York April 30. It bears the name in gold, "The Huntington Chest." Miss Huntington is a descendant of Samuel Huntington, one of the signers of the Declaration of Independence, for whom Huntington was named.

....Though there has been no expression from the White House as yet, friends of Secretary McAdoo and Miss Eleanor Randolph Wilson, who are to be married soon, believe the wedding will be a quiet family affair. Washington society is daily expecting an announcement of the date, and some who profess to be well informed think it will be April 30 or early in May. Should the wedding take place so early it is more than probable that the invitation list will be small.

THE BLESSED ROAD.

[Charles Buxton Going, in the Century.]

Three roads led out to Calvary.
The first was broad and straight,
That Pilate and great Caiaphas
Might ride thereon in state.

The second was the felons' road,
Cruel and hard to tread
For those who bore the cross's load,
For those whose footsteps bled.

The third road slunk through mean defiles,
Fearing the open sky;
And Judas crept the dreadful miles
To Calvary thereby.

The highroad up to Calvary
Was blotted from the land;
Where Judas hid, the jackal cries
By thorn-cursed drifts of sand.

But that poor road the felons went—
How fair it now appears,
Smoothed wide by myriads penitent
And flower set by their tears!

OFFICERS IN A SQUABBLE.

Disagreement Over Legislation for Relief of Naval Personnel.

The boards of officers detailed by the Secretary of the Navy to draft legislation for the relief of the naval personnel are in a squabble over details of the measure tentatively prepared. There has been a disagreement between line and staff officers on the proposal that staff officers be promoted with their running mates of the line. It was discovered that if this were carried out without modification there would be high ranking officers corresponding to rear admirals and captains in the staff, out of all proportion to the numerical strength of the different branches. Secretary Daniels refused to approve the staff corps measure, and it has been necessary so to change it as to reduce the proportion of officers to attain the highest grades in the staff corps.

The difficulties encountered by the line officers are due to the probable cost. The maintenance of a commissioned personnel of 2,000 officers, properly distributed in various grades, including four vice admirals, will necessitate the discharge with a year's pay of the surplus number of graduating midshipmen, year by year. It will also be necessary to have an active reserve list of 700 officers who are not in line of promotion, but will be available for shore duty only. This would cost an additional $2,000,000 for five years. Mr. Daniels has asked the line officers' board to go over their plan and see if something can be accomplished without materially increasing expense. The line officers are not disposed to regard this phase of the situation favorably, and some favor adhering to their original draft. In that event, Secretary Daniels may refuse to send it to the Capitol.

DIVORCED APRIL 3.

Mrs. Blanche Pierce Strebeigh Marries Jerome Bonaparte.

Mrs. Blanche Pierce Strebeigh, daughter of the late Edward S. Pierce of Newton, Mass., was married to Jerome Napoleon Bonaparte of Washington, a great-grandnephew of Napoleon I, this week in the marriage chapel in the basement of the city hall, New York, Alderman Reardon performing the ceremony. The bride had no attendants. She wore a traveling gown of black taffeta and a large hat of black straw trimmed with spring flowers. The bride was given a divorce from her former husband, Harold Strebeigh, April 3.

Mr. Bonaparte is the son of the late Jerome N. Bonaparte, who married Mrs. Newbold Edgar. He is a nephew of Charles J. Bonaparte, at one time Secretary of the Navy and later Attorney General under President Roosevelt. The Countess von Moltke-Huitfeldt is his sister.

THE NEWS IN PROVIDENCE.

The Daily News is on sale in Providence the evening of publication at Union Station

A SPECIMEN OF DIRECT GOVERNMENT

The initiative referendum and recall are pressed on us on the ground that the people have a right to govern themselves instead of being governed by persons whom they choose for the purpose When we submit the matter to a test however we find that the people do not care much about doing their own governing they would rather have it done by persons whom they have chosen to do the job The recall may draw out a pretty full vote because a person is involved in it and it is the personal element in politics that brings out the voters but the initiative and referendum are matters of legislation and it is a rare thing for such matters to bring out a full vote They give the people with fads with bees in their bonnets and with axes to grind a splendid opportunity but the rest of the community does not pay much attention and therefore the faddists bee keepers and axe grinders have a disproportionate amount of influence—which is precisely what they are after

We have lately referred to an example cited by President Lowell of Harvard in which so interesting a question in Colorado as the fencing law brought out less than 15 per cent of the voters for it and less than 15 against What the progressives shout for as direct government the only true democracy consisted of the voting of about 29 per cent of the voters

New York has just taken a vote on a constitutional convention Certainly that is a matter of fundamental importance but it was not personal It did not involve the election of any body to office The vote for and against this was one in six of those who voted at the last Presidential election and one in seven of the possible voters This is what direct government in distinction from representative government comes to It comes to government by one person in six or seven the rest having too slight an interest in the matter to vote at all

Six voters out of seven however will turn out to elect a lot of men to office and having done so they expect these men to do the governing If they do not it is the sort of government they get they may possibly vote for a different set of candidates at the next election

INITIATION IN THE CHAUTAUQUA SPIRIT

There is no question that [illegible] against [illegible] the [illegible] dangers which exist [illegible] will for [illegible] how ever [illegible] what [illegible] and that [illegible] the [illegible] was [illegible] think [illegible] though [illegible] germs of [illegible] would be [illegible] extent of [illegible] It is desirable [illegible] necessary [illegible]

The [illegible] will be doing a useful and important work It [illegible] that the use of the Chautauqua [illegible] might be the means of carrying [illegible] those not affected with it, but the probability seems so remote as to make it unnecessary to issue a prohibition against this custom which has become popular as a method of recognition and endorsement by audiences It certainly is a practice which in itself merits commendation for it is often a welcome relief from the noisy demonstrations which usually accompany greeting by large audiences and their expression of approval. The good element would seem to outweigh the comparatively small possibility of contagion

WINTER WHEAT PROSPECTS

Last year we had the largest crop of winter wheat and the largest of wheat in the aggregate we ever harvested The official report on the condition of winter wheat April 1 is higher than a year ago Then it was represented by the figures 91 6 and now it is 95 6 per cent of a theoretical maximum Turned into bushels this increase in condition would mean 108 000 000 more than last year, when the crop beat all records

Of course no one is estimating the winter wheat harvest at 619 800 000 bushels All sorts of things may happen to it but the harvest depends largely on the state in which the fall-sown grain emerges from the winter and the crop is harvested before there is much danger of drought We have sometimes had an extremely dry spring and the crops have suffered therefrom but this is exceptional Generally the drought comes on with the hot weather and before the heated term the winter wheat will be cut and threshed For these reasons a high condition figure April 1 is a legitimate reason for expecting a large crop

The general prosperity of the country depends so much on the prosperity of the farmers that good crops mean a good business year A very large winter wheat crop might reduce the price but if this should curtail the profit of the farmer it would at least reduce the cost of living to the people of the cities The country benefits more from a large crop than a small one though the farmers often take in more money for the smaller In recent years that has happened in both corn and cotton

Without attempting to measure the wheat crop of 1914 or to fix its price the fact that the fall sown grain has come through the winter in unprecedently good condition is an important augury of the prosperity of the coming season The railroads will have more to haul the farmers will have plenty of money with which to buy things and if the price of flour should go down which depends mostly on the wheat markets of the world those of us who buy all our food will find the cost of living a little less

FREE SERVICE FOR POOR LITIGANTS

A new departure has been made in the law courts of England from which this country may well learn a lesson It has hitherto been practically impossible for poor people to take action for damages or to secure a divorce owing to the high scale of legal fees This condition has now been rectified by the establishment of a department of the courts where poor people can go directly without consulting a lawyer present their grievances and if these are decided to be real and well founded from a legal point of view the government will undertake to carry their cases through and the expense will be paid from the public funds Solicitors and barristers as lawyers are commonly called in that country who are willing to take up these matters will enroll their names with the department and cases will be allotted to them in court No fees will be asked of the litigants who will thus be placed on an equality with the rich in their ability to secure justice in every deserving case which may arise thus relieving them of a great hardship under which they have been laboring

Something of the same condition obtains in this country so far as the difficulty of the poor to secure justice in the courts is concerned It is not so serious here as it has been in England apparently for the poor are seldom actually barred out of court for lack of means to prosecute suits as there are usually plenty of lawyers willing to take cases on speculation It is a fact however that the establishment of such a department of the courts would be a great boon to many poor people who are hampered if not absolutely prevented from seeking justice because of the high cost of law proceedings and fees As a matter of equity the conduct of cases in which poor persons are interested and which are legally entitled to a hearing by the government should not be overlooked and it would be a wise provision in this country to establish such a means of dealing out justice to those who are deserving and without means to prosecute their cases The present conditions here as in England place a premium on wealth in the courts of law and there is no place where differences of this sort ought less to exist than in these where justice should be dispensed with an even hand

A former basket ball player who has been identified with the game since it was introduced in Newport and knows what he is talking about says this year's Rogers High School team is the cleverest fastest and most scientific ever developed in the city That is saying a great deal for Newport has had several of the best basket ball teams in the country

The friends of the condemned gunmen in New York are still appealing to Governor Glynn to pardon or reprieve the convicted men but their latest attempt although with a personal application, is not likely to succeed They have put the matter up to the governor as a matter of conscience rather than law admonishing him to look below the verdict and exercise executive clemency irrespective of the opinions of the court of appeals the district attorney and of Justice Goff who presided at the trial It is not for Governor Glynn to act in this way He must act on the advice of the law officers

In spite of the fact that one candidate received a plurality of 5 000 votes Montreal is without a mayor The old city government expired Thursday by limitation of laws and ordinarily the newly-elected mayor would at once have taken his seat. Some one, however has called for a recount on the ground of mistakes, and at least three weeks must elapse before the result of the election can be officially proclaimed In the meantime Montreal will probably manage in some way without a mayor

American automobiles are making such inroads on the English trade that the suggestion is offered that a tax be placed on the American product It is said that one American firm alone sells more cars in Great Britain than the five biggest English motor companies combined What's the matter with the manufacturers over there?

Postmaster General Burleson announces that economies in the rural mail service the division of supplies and the dead letter office of the Postoffice Department have saved approximately $1 00 000 for the government in the past year Has the service suffered thereby?

President Wilson is likely to have another fight on his hands when the new Colombian treaty reaches the Senate However he has become accustomed to fighting by this time

In the language of the street has Colombia pulled this country's leg?

HAVE WE BEEN HELD UP AT BOGOTA?

(Boston Transcript.)

The career of Mr Bryan as Secretary of State has presented many occasions for just criticism of him as exercising the functions of a diplomatist without having learned the trade His eccentricities have been many His feebleness in the face of the Mexican crisis and his meekness under the rebuffs of Carranza and Villa have mortified his countrymen and embarrassed the administration If he has in the recently negotiated treaty with Colombia incorporated an apology for the course of the United States with regard to the establishment of the Republic of Panama he has thrown all his previous mistakes into eclipse We are not prepared in the absence of the full official text to believe that he has sunk to such abjection For the present we give him the benefit of charitable doubt despite the many unofficial intimations that the treatey besides being extravagant is apologetic If when the text is laid before the country it is found to contain any apology direct or implied, that indicts the United States we shall feel that the limit of public patience with Secretary Bryan has been reached

Aquidneck Grange Hears Paper by Mrs. Hughes and Sees Her Cats.

[Regular correspondence of the News]

Aquidneck Grange held its regular meeting Thursday evening at the town hall Worthy Master Mrs May Chase Spooner presiding The lecturer Mr Clifton B Ward gave an interesting account of the recent lecturers' conference in Providence Several applications for membership were received The degree work was postponed until such time as a number of proposed members are ready to join the class.

At the close of the business session, Mrs William M Hughes presented a paper on "The Origin, Development and Possibilities of the Long-Haired Cat" There are as yet but two authorized cat clubs in the state 'The Rhode Island Cat Club organized in Providence in 1911 and the Newport County Cat Club formed in Portsmouth in January 1914 with 30 charter members Several members of Aquidneck Grange are officers in the latter organization The club expects to hold a cat show at the beach during the summer

At the conclusion of the address Mrs Hughes exhibited four of her pets, showing them separately on a table and illustrating in various ways her methods of caring for them and their handsome long coats Three of the creatures were very large—the orange, the white and the shaded silver Persians—the fourth being of good size but too young to have reached its growth They were in a leash and were allowed to run so that their beauty could be fully appreciated The table scarf bore nine badges, some with medals, awarded as prizes at the various shows Mrs Hughes said she had received many more but when she sells a cat the winning ribbons are always presented to the purchaser

In reply to questions the necessary points required for a prize winner were explained Mrs Hughes was assisted by her sister, Miss Helen Clarke A unanimous vote of thanks was extended the speaker

A special program will be conducted at the next meeting by Mr F P Webber

HOW THE LANGUAGE GROWS

[Cleveland Plain Dealer]

This is an age of great language growth There are so many new things in life that new words have to be devised to express common new ideas

The automobile was the first of these recent agents for the enlargement of speech The word automobile itself was vigorously condemned by purists as a mongrel and impossible combination of Greek and French But 'automobile' has stuck and is now a good dictionary word And a score of other words have come in its wake and are in everyday use

Aviation brought enrichment and so did wireless telegraphy. And now last but by no means least, the cinematograph is fast supplying for itself the words needed to express cinematograph ideas

Of all barbarous linguistic inventions the word movies is perhaps the worst. It has not yet passed beyond the slang stage. But it is used every day by thousands of men and women, and this is what makes words good Its future may be considered as reasonably assured, for it is the only short word which has yet been devised for the motion picture. As soon as good usage sanctions it movies will cease to sound barbarous.

A word to the wise is sufficient, but mighty few of us are wise enough to know it.

EXCLUSIVE ASSOCIATED PRESS SERVICE FOR NEWPORT.

THE NEWS IN PROVIDENCE.

The Daily News is on sale in Providence the evening of publication at Union Station.

A SPECIMEN OF DIRECT GOVERNMENT.

The initiative, referendum and recall are pressed on us on the ground that the people have a right to govern themselves instead of being governed by persons whom they choose for the purpose. When we submit the matter to a test, however, we find that the people do not care much about doing their own governing; they would rather have it done by persons whom they have chosen to do the job. The recall may draw out a pretty full vote because a person is involved in it, and it is the personal element in politics that brings out the voters, but the initiative and referendum are matters of legislation and it is a rare thing for such matters to bring out a full vote. They give the people with fads, with bees in their bonnets, and with axes to grind, a splendid opportunity, but the rest of the community does not pay much attention, and therefore the faddists, bee-keepers and axe-grinders have a disproportionate amount of influence—which is precisely what they are after.

We have lately referred to an example cited by President Lowell of Harvard, in which so interesting a question in Colorado as the fencing law brought out less than 15 per cent of the voters for it and less than 15 against. What the progressives shout for as direct government, the only true democracy, consisted of the voting of about 29 per cent of the voters.

New York has just taken a vote on a constitutional convention. Certainly that is a matter of fundamental importance, but it was not personal; it did not involve the election of anybody to office. The vote for and against this was one in six of those who voted at the last Presidential election and one in seven of the possible voters. This is what direct government in distinction from representative government comes to; it comes to government by one person in six or seven, the rest having too slight an interest in the matter to vote at all.

Six voters out of seven, however, will turn out to elect a lot of men to office, and, having done so, they expect these men to do the governing. If they do not like the sort of government they get, they may possibly vote for a different set of candidates at the next election.

INFECTION IN THE CHAUTAUQUA SALUTE.

There is no question that all reasonable precautions should be taken against the spread of tuberculosis and the contracting of the disease in any way, and no one who fully realizes the dangers which exist along that line will for a moment think of doing anything which would hinder in any manner the work. It does seem sometimes, however, as though even medical men take unnecessarily serious views of what are apparently harmless acts, and that they must be endowed with a very vivid imagination when they can see evil in things which appear innocent. For instance, one has recently discountenanced the use of the Chautauqua salute, which consists of the waving of handkerchiefs, on the ground that it is dangerous. He thinks the handkerchiefs of some of those in the audience might contain dried germs of tuberculosis, which would be liberated by the agitation and affect persons present even to the extent of causing the disease to take root. It is desirable to take every precaution against this disease, but it seems as though this were an unnecessary scare.

There are, however, many customs which are to be condemned and should not be allowed to exist, and if the physicians will control all these they will be doing a useful and important work. It is of course possible that the use of the Chautauqua salute might be the means of carrying the germs and indeed others to those not afflicted with it, but the probability seems so remote as to make it unnecessary to issue a prohibition against this custom, which has become popular as a method of recognition and endorsement by audiences. It certainly is a practice which in itself merits commendation, for it is often a welcome relief from the noisy demonstrations which usually accompany greeting by large audiences and their expression of approval. The good element would seem to outweigh the comparatively small possibility of contagion.

WINTER WHEAT PROSPECTS.

Last year we had the largest crop of winter wheat and the largest of wheat in the aggregate we ever harvested. The official report on the condition of winter wheat April 1 is higher than a year ago. Then it was represented by the figures 91.6 and now it is 93.6 per cent of a theoretical maximum. Turned into bushels, this increase in condition would mean 108,000,000 more than last year, when the crop beat all records.

Of course no one is estimating the winter wheat harvest at 619,800,000 bushels. All sorts of things may happen to it, but the harvest depends largely on the state in which the fall-sown grain emerges from the winter, and the crop is harvested before there is much danger of drought. We have sometimes had an extremely dry spring and the crops have suffered therefrom, but this is exceptional. Generally the drought comes on with the hot weather and before the heated term the winter wheat will be cut and threshed. For these reasons a high condition figure April 1 is a legitimate reason for expecting a large crop.

The general prosperity of the country depends so much on the prosperity of the farmers that good crops mean a good business year. A very large winter wheat crop might reduce the price, but if this should curtail the profit of the farmer it would at least reduce the cost of living to the people of the cities. The country benefits more from a large crop than a small one, though the farmers often take in more money for the smaller. In recent years that has happened in both corn and cotton.

Without attempting to measure the wheat crop of 1914 or to fix its price, the fact that the fall-sown grain has come through the winter in unprecedently good condition is an important augury of the prosperity of the coming season. The railroads will have more to haul, the farmers will have plenty of money with which to buy things, and if the price of flour should go down, which depends mostly on the wheat markets of the world, those of us who buy all our food will find the cost of living a little less.

FREE SERVICE FOR POOR LITIGANTS.

A new departure has been made in the law courts of England, from which this country may well learn a lesson. It has hitherto been practically impossible for poor people to take action for damages or to secure a divorce, owing to the high scale of legal fees. This condition has now been rectified by the establishment of a department of the courts where poor people can go directly without consulting a lawyer, present their grievances, and if these are decided to be real and well founded from a legal point of view the government will undertake to carry their cases through and the expense will be paid from the public funds. Solicitors and barristers, as lawyers are commonly called in that country, who are willing to take up these matters will enroll their names with the department and cases will be allotted to them in court. No fees will be asked of the litigants, who will thus be placed on an equality with the rich in their ability to secure justice in every deserving case which may arise, thus relieving them of a great hardship under which they have been laboring.

Something of the same condition obtains in this country so far as the difficulty of the poor to secure justice in the courts is concerned. It is not so serious here as it has been in England apparently, for the poor are seldom actually barred out of court for lack of means to prosecute suits, as there are usually plenty of lawyers willing to take cases on speculation. It is a fact, however, that the establishment of such a department of the courts would be a great boon to many poor people, who are hampered, if not absolutely prevented, from seeking justice because of the high cost of law proceedings and fees. As a matter of equity the conduct of cases in which poor persons are interested and which are legally entitled to a hearing by the government should not be overlooked, and it would be a wise provision in this country to establish such a means of dealing out justice to those who are deserving and without means to prosecute their cases. The present conditions here, as in England, place a premium on wealth in the courts of law, and there is no place where differences of this sort ought less to exist than in these, where justice should be dispensed with an even hand.

A former basket ball player, who has been identified with the game since it was introduced in Newport and knows what he is talking about, says this year's Rogers High School team is the cleverest fastest and most scientific ever developed in the city. That is saying a great deal, for Newport has had several of the best basket ball teams in the country.

The friends of the condemned gunmen in New York are still appealing to Governor Glynn to pardon or reprieve the convicted men, but their latest attempt, although with a personal application, is not likely to succeed. They have put the matter up to the governor as a matter of conscience rather than law, admonishing him to "look below the verdict" and exercise executive clemency, irrespective of the opinions of the court of appeals, the district attorney and of Justice Goff, who presided at the trial. It is not for Governor Glynn to act in this way. He must act on the advice of the law officers.

In spite of the fact that one candidate received a plurality of 5,000 votes, Montreal is without a mayor. The old city government expired Thursday by lemtation of laws, and ordinarily the newly-elected mayor would at once have taken his seat. Some one, however, has called for a recount on the ground of mistakes, and at least three weeks must elapse before the result of the election can be officially proclaimed. In the meantime Montreal will probably manage in some way without a mayor.

HAVE WE BEEN HELD UP AT BOGOTA?

[Boston Transcript.]

The career of Mr. Bryan as Secretary of State has presented many occasions for just criticism of him as exercising the functions of a diplomatist without having learned the trade. His eccentricities have been many. His feebleness in the face of the Mexican crisis and his meekness under the rebuffs of Carranza and Villa have mortified his countrymen and embarrassed the administration. If he has in the recently negotiated treaty with Colombia incorporated an apology for the course of the United States with regard to the establishment of the Republic of Panama he has thrown all his previous mistakes into eclipse. We are not prepared in the absence of the full official text to believe that he has sunk to such abjection. For the present we give him the benefit of charitable doubt despite the many unofficial intimations that the treaty besides being extravagant is apologetic. If when the text is laid before the country it is found to contain any apology, direct or implied, that indicts the United States, we shall feel that the limit of public patience with Secretary Bryan has been reached.

Aquidneck Grange Hears Paper by Mrs. Hughes and Sees Her Cats.

Aquidneck Grange held its regular meeting Thursday evening at the town hall, Worthy Master Mrs. May Chase Spooner presiding. The lecturer, Mr. Clifton B. Ward, gave an interesting account of the recent lecturers' conference in Providence. Several applications for membership were received. The degree work was postponed until such time as a number of proposed members are ready to join the class.

At the close of the business session, Mrs. William M Hughes presented a paper on "The Origin, Development and Possibilities of the Long-Haired Cat." There are as yet but two authorized cat clubs in the state, "The Rhode Island Cat Club" organized in Providence in 1911, and the Newport County Cat Club, formed in Portsmouth in January, 1914, with 30 charter members. Several members of Aquidneck Grange are officers in the latter organization. The club expects to hold a cat show at the beach during the summer.

At the conclusion of the address Mrs. Hughes exhibited four of her pets, showing them separately on a table and illustrating in various ways her methods of caring for them and their handsome long coats. Three of the creatures were very large—the orange, the white and the shaded silver Persians—the fourth being of good size but too young to have reached its growth. They were in a leash and were allowed to run so that their beauty could be fully appreciated. The table scarf bore nine badges, some with medals, awarded as prizes at the various shows. Mrs. Hughes said she had received many more, but when she sells a cat the winning ribbons are always presented to the purchaser.

In reply to questions, the necessary "points" required for a prize winner were explained. Mrs. Hughes was assisted by her sister, Miss Helen Clarke. A unanimous vote of thanks was extended the speaker.

A special program will be conducted at the next meeting by Mr. F. P. Webber.

HOW THE LANGUAGE GROWS.

[Cleveland Plain Dealer.]

This is an age of great language growth. There are so many new things in life that new words have to be devised to express common new ideas.

The automobile was the first of these recent agents for the enlargement of speech. The word "automobile" itself was vigorously condemned by purists as a mongrel, and impossible combination of Greek and French. But "automobile" has stuck, and is now a "good dictionary word." And a score of other words have come in its wake, and are in everyday use.

Aviation brought enrichment, and so did wireless telegraphy. And now, last but by no means least, the cinematograph is fast supplying for itself the words needed to express cinematograph ideas.

Of all barbarous linguistic inventions the word "movies" is perhaps the worst. It has not yet passed beyond the slang stage. But it is used every day by thousands of men and women, and this is what makes words good. Its future may be considered as reasonably assured, for it is the only short word which has yet been devised for the motion picture. As soon as good usage sanctions it "movies" will cease to sound barbarous.

A word to the wise is sufficient, but mighty few of us are wise enough to know it.

The weather was fair and there was much clear sky this morning over all the eastern half of the country. Some scattered rains are falling in Rocky Mountain districts and snow flurries in the states between the upper Mississippi valley and the northern Rockies. A depression is central over Wisconsin, causing the disturbed weather conditions in north central districts. Except on the Atlantic slope and in the Gulf states where rather cold weather prevails, the temperature has risen moderately since Thursday and is generally above the freezing point, except in the northern tier of states.

The lowest reported in the United States during last night was 18 degrees at Greenville, Maine. INVITATION RENEWED.

Rev W. O. Ward to Preach to Odd Fellows at Their Celebration.

Rev. William L Ward, the new pastor, has renewed the invitation of Rev. Joseph Cooper, formerly of the First Methodist Episcopal Church for the Odd Fellows to attend service there Sunday evening, April 26, on the occasion of their ninety-fifth anniversary.

The committee working on the plans for the celebration have received definite notice that Electia Lodge, No. 41, of Adamsville; Oakland Lodge, No. 22, of Portsmouth, and Beacon Lodge, No. 38, of Wickford, have signified their intention of attending the Newport celebration in a body. A few other near-by lodges, although they will not attend as organizations, will be represented by individuals. There are still a number of lodges to be heard from as to accepting the invitation to take part.

A special committee has been appointed to look up features for the parade. It is also hoped to have the Rebecca branch represented in some way. The Canton is busy these days, drilling under Captain Allen C. Griffith.

The two Rebecca Lodges, Emma and Esther, have undertaken to prepare the banquet and have a committee already at work on the preliminaries. It is expected that the entertainers will be furnished by Manager Kaull of the Colonial Theatre, but just what form this will take has not yet been decided.

Realty hall has been engaged for the banquet and entertainment, in order to have Odd Fellows' hall for the social and whist later in the evening.

General Secretary John P. Lantz read his report of the general work of the Association, which included those of Physical Director P. H. Slocum and Boys' Work Secretary Glenn A. Stokes The following facts are given from the reports

Physical department—Total attendance—Men, 2790, boys, 4414; total, 7 204, last year's total, 4,039; net gain 56 per cent. Those actively using the gymnasium— Business men, 24, professional men, 11, clerks, 21, mechanics, 28, high school boys, 20; working boys, 29; grammar school boys, 78, total, 211.

Recreation League—Organized in November, 1913, for all-around athletic team championship Five teams, 70 men enrolled, met two nights a week, covering a period of 20 weeks; 21 different games and races, 160 total number of contests, with a total attendance of 1170 competitors The championship shield was won by the Whirlwinds.

Extension work in the gymnasium—During the winter the gymnasium has been used, during vacant periods, by Sunday. Schools and groups of young men not having gymnasiums of their own Number of participants, 600, number of visitors, three times as many The highest week for the season was in February, when 21 games of basket ball were played, in addition to the routine work

Summer work for members—The playground in the rear of the building will be equipped for tennis, handball, quoits, field hockey, athletic events and volley ball The swimming pool and showers will be much appreciated summer features

Extension work (for non-members)—The Association has in the past cooperated with the public schools and with the Civic League in conducting Grammar school basket ball leagues. Last year 14 schools were represented by 16 teams and 250 boys The league played a schedule of 100 games covering a period of six weeks The Grammar school athletic festival was conducted in connection with the Civic League in Aquidneck park with separate festivals for boys and girls, in which 600 children participated

Social and entertainment department—The Association minstrels were put on last autumn, with performances two nights, 60 in the chorus, net profits $118.15. New Year's reception, societies participating as follows: Newport Artillery, Board of Trade, Charity Organization, Civic League, Salvation Army, Federation of Churches, besides about a score of different individuals; professional reader, Miss Grace B T Priest, total attendance, 500 The Dawn of Plenty, March 16, total attendance, 89

The business men's clubroom, in the main lobby, adjoining the office was opened in January, 1914, the expense of alterations and fitting being subscribed by interested members Its purpose is to have a quiet spot where business men may meet friends for business or social engagements It is expected that in the future this will prove a valuable adjunct to the men's department

Educational—A lecture was given on "The Immigrant" by Dr George W. Tupper of Boston, following a dinner to 25 invited guests, November 14 The reading room is fitted with leading daily, weekly and monthly publications The advisability of having a course of practical talks and lectures will be considered by the new educational committee

Religious Work—Meetings in building November 23, E A Mead, New York dramatic recital of "Damaged Goods," Miss E. S. Hayden rendering a specific musical program with organ chimes Sunday, January 4, Walter M Chandler, subject "The Trial of Jesus, from a Lawyer's Standpoint;" cello soloist, 'Mr Carl Webster of Boston March 1, Dr. Charles A. Eastman, noted writer and lecturer, subject, "The Soul of the Indian;" Indian melodies sung by Miss Irene Eastman Total expenses for the course, $162 90. total collections, $35.02. A special contribution from a friend of the Association covered the entire expense of the series

Life Problem Club—Organized in January, leader P H Slocum among members of the physical department Number of sessions, 8, total attendance 56, average attendance, 7.

Boys' Department—The first few years of work for boys in the new building were on the experimental basis, the Association feeling that it could not afford to pay the salary of a secretary with training and experience Last spring the board of directors determined that this department was far too important to leave in the hands of an untrained officer Consequently application was made to the Young Men's Christian Association College in Springfield, resulting in the engagement of Glenn A. Stokes, who graduated in the class of 1913. The administration of Mr. Stokes in the boys' department began in July, 1913, but the active work dates from the opening of the fall season, in October. The directors feel that the results already realized have entirely justified their decision to secure a trained leader.

The membership last autumn was 71; membership April 1, 1914, 130. Of these 75 are grammar school boys and 36 employed boys. Of the original 71 there was a shrinkage of 11, most of whom joined the men's department, having the number about 60 at the opening of the season The present membership, therefore, showed a net gain of more than 100 per cent since last October. It is recognized that the growth of the department has just begun and it is fully expected that the membership will go beyond the 200 mark before April, 1915.

During the year there were 17 different social events, with a total attendance of 797. The Society Vaudeville was attended by nearly 1,000 persons at three performances, with a net profit of $77.13. Sixty boys participated in the chorus In the educational line there were 12 different events scheduled of which the Father and Son banquet was the closing and perhaps the most important of the season There was an attendance at this dinner, which was served by the Woman's Auxiliary, of 160 men and boys, and the address was given by H W Gibson of Boston The religious activities, including Bible classes, discussion clubs, meetings and conferences, showed a total attendance of 436. Some of the most important religious facts such as personal contact of the secretary with the boys, are more important than those which can be computed in actual figures

In addition to the instruction which has been given to the boys in the physical department reported elsewhere, were the following events: Bicycle trips, trips to neighboring Associations, hikes and bowling matches

The financial report showed total receipts for 1913-4, $9,116.15; last year, $8 650 26 These include only the figures regarding the actual work, and not several large gifts to current expenses The expenditures were 1913-14, $12,082.71, last year, $11,440 49. There was an extra expense this year of about $1,100, to put the building in condition to do the most effective work, and not withstanding this the net loss was only $176 76

The finance committee will issue to members and friends before the vacation season a complete report of the financial standing of the Association

Lobster Pots Stacked at Saunderstown Burned in the Night.

(Regular correspondence of the News)

One hundred and sixty lobster pots stacked on the water front at Saunderstown were destroyed Thursday night by fire. They were the property of Ralph Mathewson and were ready to be put overboard at the opening of the season, April 15. Just when they burned or how they caught is not known, although they were stacked only a few hundred feet north of the hotel and must have caused a considerable blaze That they had been burned was discovered when the 7 10 ferry landed from Jamestown, by the smoke from the charred embers A boat only a few feet away had the paint blistered on the exposed side but had not caught

Ice made on the island again Thursday night, and as yet, little plowing has been done, owing to the cold and wet weather.

—Mr. Joseph Barrett and wife will leave Saturday for a visit to their daughters at Newbergh, N. Y.

—Misses Nellie Havican and Josephine Blacklock have returned after spending their vacation in New York and Philadelphia.

—The old merry-go-round which was at the beach some years ago is to go into commission again and is being shipped to New Bedford.

—One of Captain H. L. Willoughby's flying machines arrived from Florida summer place, "The Chalet," this morning and was taken to his

—T. J. O'Neill has sold for Constant Smith and wife the cottage and about 5,000 square feet of land on Caswell avenue, to John H. Samuels and wife.

—The police report a washout on the roadway on Houston avenue. Also, one store door was not locked Thursday night—that is, one the police know about.

—Tender Ozark and submarines G-1 and G-2 left the Torpedo Station this morning for the New York navy yard, where the submarines will receive an overhauling and undergo repairs.

—The old steam roller which the city exchanged for the new one, also giving something, has been shipped away. The roller man is still working on the new one trying to fix it to suit Chauffeur Leonard. It is expected that it will go into commission Monday.

—The temperature went down pretty low Thursday, but did not reach the point the weather man has been talking about for the past two days. Like the northwest storm, the freezing period seems to have misstayed so far as Newport is concerned. Everybody hoped it would, and everybody is pleased that it did.

—The city is painting the iron fence on Long wharf. The Armour Company claims a section of the wharf on which this fence is located, but the city will paint that just the same In the absence of the watering carts, the superintendent of street sprinkling is doing the iron fence painting and there is considerable of it.

—The Easter vacation began in the public schools Thursday afternoon and immediately thereafter the base ball season opened on the Basin, which was nearly up to its old name having several ponds and the boys seemed to think more wetness than dry land. It really called for rubber boots to retrieve the ball from some of the morasses into which it was driven.

—Rev. Joseph Cooper and family left for Brockton this afternoon. Miss Gwendolyn Cooper will complete her course in the graduating class at the Rogers High School, the other three children entering the Brockton High School. Rev. Mr. Ward's goods are expected to arrive from Providence this afternoon, and he and his family will occupy the parsonage on Farewell street next week.

—In the district court this morning Patrick Morrissey was discharged. He was accused of spitting on the sidewalk. Robert Frame seemed to be the chief witness for the city, but after he had testified he went his way. The prisoner had something to say, and after he had said it the judge wished to ask Mr. Frame something. There was no wireless telephone at hand, and the prisoner was discharged. At the police station a man for drunkenness was fined $2 and costs.

A BUSY YEAR ALL AROUND.

Reports Show Varied Activities and Work of the Y. M. C. A.

Annual Meeting of the Board of Directors and Election of Officers and Committees.

The annual meeting of the board of directors of the Young Men's Christian Association, following the close of the fiscal year March 31 last, was held Thursday evening, when reports of the year's work were read and the following officers and committees were elected:

First Vice President—Frederick Weir.

Second Vice President—George H. Bryant.

Treasurer—Albert K. Sherman.

Auditor—Abner L. Slocum.

Executive Committee—Frederick Weir, George H. Bryant, J. W. Horton, David C. Caesar, Benjamin T. White, William MacLeod, Fred P. Webber.

The president, Mr. H. A. Titus, submitted the list of standing committees, which were approved by the directors.

General Secretary John P. Lantz read his report of the general work of the Association, which included those of Physical Director P. H. Slocum and Boys' Work Secretary Glenn A. Stokes. The following facts are given from the reports:

Physical department—Total attendance—Men, 2790; boys, 4414; total, 7,204; last year's total, 4,039; net gain 56 per cent. Those actively using the gymnasium— Business men, 24; professional men, 11; clerks, 21; mechanics, 28; high school boys, 20; working boys, 29; grammar school boys, 78; total, 211.

Recreation League—Organized in November, 1913, for all-around athletic team championship. Five teams, 70 men enrolled, met two nights a week, covering a period of 20 weeks; 21 different games and races, 160 total number of contests, with a total attendance of 1170 competitors. The championship shield was won by the Whirlwinds.

Extension work in the gymnasium—During the winter the gymnasium has been used, during vacant periods, by Sunday Schools and groups of young men not having gymnasiums of their own. Number of participants, 600; number of visitors, three times as many. The highest week for the season was in February, when 21 games of basket ball were played, in addition to the routine work.

Summer work for members—The playground in the rear of the building will be equipped for tennis, handball, quoits, field hockey, athletic events and volley ball. The swimming pool and showers will be much appreciated summer features.

Extension work (for non-members)—The Association has in the past cooperated with the public schools and with the Civic League in conducting Grammar school basket ball leagues. Last year 14 schools were represented by 15 teams and 250 boys The league played a schedule of 100 games covering a period of six weeks The Grammar school athletic festival was conducted in connection with the Civic League in Aquidneck park with separate festivals for boys and girls, in which 500 children participated.

Social and entertainment department—The Association minstrels were put on last autumn, with performances two nights, 60 in the chorus, net profits $118.15. New Year's reception, societies participating as follows: Newport Artillery, Board of Trade, Charity Organization, Civic League, Salvation Army, Federation of Churches, besides about a score of different individuals; professional reader, Miss Grace B. T. Priest; total attendance, 500. The Dawn of Plenty, March 16; total attendance, 80.

The business men's clubroom, in the main lobby, adjoining the office, was opened in January, 1914, the expense of alterations and fitting being subscribed by interested members. Its purpose is to have a quiet spot where business men may meet friends for business or social engagements. It is expected that in the future this will prove a valuable adjunct to the men's department.

Educational—A lecture was given on "The Immigrant" by Dr. George W. Tupper of Boston, following a dinner to 25 invited guests, November 14. The reading room is fitted with leading daily, weekly and monthly publications. The advisability of having a course of practical talks and lectures will be considered by the new educational committee.

Religious Work—Meetings in building: November 23, E. A. Mead, New York, dramatic recital of "Damaged Goods," Miss E. S. Hayden rendering a special musical program with organ chimes. Sunday, January 4, Walter M. Chandler, subject "The Trial of Jesus, from a Lawyer's Standpoint;" cello soloist, Mr. Carl Webster of Boston. March 1, Dr. Charles A. Eastman, noted writer and lecturer; subject, "The Soul of the Indian;" Indian melodies sung by Miss Irene Eastman. Total expenses for the course, $162.99, total collections, $35.02. A special contribution from a friend of the Association covered the entire expense of the series.

Life Problem Club—Organized in January, leader P. H. Slocum, among members of the physical department. Number of sessions, 8; total attendance, 56; average attendance, 7.

Boys' Department—The first few years of work for boys in the new building were on the experimental basis, the Association feeling that it could not afford to pay the salary of a secretary with training and experience. Last spring the board of directors determined that this department was far too important to leave in the hands of an untrained officer. Consequently application was made to the Young Men's Christian Association College in Springfield, resulting in the engagement of Glenn A. Stokes, who graduated in the class of 1913. The administration of Mr. Stokes in the boys' department began in July, 1913, but the active work dates from the opening of the fall season, in October. The directors feel that the results already realized have entirely justified their decision to secure a trained leader.

The membership last autumn was 75; membership April 1, 1914, 180. Of these 75 are grammar school boys and 85 employed boys. Of the original 71 there was a shrinkage of 11, most of whom joined the men's department, having the number about 60 at the opening of the season. The present membership, therefore, showed a net gain of more than 100 per cent since last October. It is recognized that the growth of the department has just begun and it is fully expected that the membership will go beyond the 200 mark before April, 1915.

During the year there were 17 different social events, with a total attendance of 797. The Society Vaudeville was attended by nearly 1,000 persons at three performances, with a net profit of $77.13. Sixty boys participated in the chorus. In the educational line there were 12 different events scheduled of which the Father and Son banquet was the closing and perhaps the most important of the season. There was an attendance at this dinner, which was served by the Woman's Auxiliary, of 160 men and boys, and the address was given by H. W. Gibson of Boston. The religious activities, including Bible classes, discussion clubs, meetings and conferences, showed a total attendance of 426. Some of the most important religious facts such as personal contact of the secretary with the boys, are more important than those which can be computed in actual figures.

In addition to the instruction which has been given to the boys in the physical department, reported elsewhere, were the following events: Bicycle trips, trips to neighboring Associations, hikes and bowling matches.

The financial report showed total receipts for 1913-4, $9,116.15; last year, $9,650.26. These include only the figures regarding the actual work, and not several large gifts to current expenses The expenditures were: 1913-14, $12,082.71; last year, $11,440.49. There was an extra expense this year of about $1,100, to put the building in condition to do the most effective work, and not withstanding this the net loss was only $176.76.

The finance committee will issue to members and friends before the vacation season a complete report of the financial standing of the Association.

JAMESTOWN.

Lobster Pots Stacked at Saunderstown Burned in the Night.

(Regular correspondence of the News.)

One hundred and sixty lobster pots stacked on the water front at Saunderstown were destroyed Thursday night by fire. They were the property of Ralph Mathewson and were ready to be put overboard at the opening of the season, April 15. Just when they burned or how they caught is not known, although they were stacked only a few hundred feet north of the hotel and must have caused a considerable blaze. That they had been burned was discovered when the 7:10 ferry landed from Jamestown, by the smoke from the charred embers. A boat only a few feet away had the paint blistered on the exposed side but had not caught.

Fee made on the island again Thursday night, and as yet little plowing has been done, owing to the cold and wet weather.

Mr. Alfred Weeden, a member of the crew of battleship Rhode Island, is spending a furlough with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Weeden, on Greene lane.

A quartet from Brown University has been secured for a concert at the Central Baptist Church.

Mr. A. C. Knowles has commenced work on two cottages, which he has the contract to build near the Gilbert Stuart place in North Kingstown.

Captain J. H. Petty has commenced his summer's work with the ferry company.

Lighter Utility of Newport is at work in the west bay today, on the cable between Fort Greble and Fort Kearny.

Old "Drydock" Daniels may take the punch out of the wardroom but he can't take it out of the 16-inch guns. —[Boston Transcript.

NO ACTION ON PHILIPPINES.

Democrats Not Anxious to Push the Independence Measure.

Patriotism or Cowardice—Where Women Vote—Dissatisfaction With Rules of the House.

[Washington correspondence of the News.]

WASHINGTON April 9— Havent we done enough for one session of Congress? was the reply of a member of the cabinet when I asked him if the admin stration had any intention of taking up the bill for independence of the Philippines at th s session A similar question was recently put to the President and he replied that in the midst of many other matters he had rather lost track of the situation regarding the Philipp ne independence bill It is still in the committee of insular affairs of the House

It may be stated that unt l the President has more information than he had when the national platform declared so earnestly for Ph lippine independence he will not ask Congress to consider and rush through any such measure

During Champ Clark s earnest speech for standing by the Democratic national platform he said that Wood row Wilson would be re nominated and re elected if he made good Notwithstanding the platf r n remarked a man in the gallery remembering that the national platform was strong for one term only for a President

During the discussion about mileage Congressman Rucker of Missouri saying that he was a plain blunt man, remarked that it was difficult to determine whether it was patriot sm or cowardice that was moving the House to reduce the mileage He also remarked that the proximity of the elections had much to do with the spasm for reducing mil age If the elections had been held last month this proposit on would not stand a ghost of a chance he said

The appropriations committee had brought in a proposition that instead of 20 cents a mile to be paid to members they were to receive actual traveling expenses for themselves and dependent members of their families

How about a dependent husband? asked Congressman Bryan who hails from Washington where women vote "There is a woman candidate for Congress in one of the districts in my state and if elected she is likely to bring her husband with her Will he be a dependent?"

There is considerable dissatisfaction with the rules of the House even if they have been liberalized since Joe Cannon s day Some day remarked Congressman Deitrick of Massachusetts a proposition w ll be sprung in the House to change those rules so that business can be transacted more expeditiously and it will go through We are getting rather tired of having so much time taken by a few members on measures that are sure to pass when they finally get a vote

I do not know much about these rules Congressman Thompson of Oklahoma told the House one day I do not care to know much about them I think the more a man knows about them the less he knows about the real practical affairs of the republic

But you couldn t get Jim Mann John Fitzgerald Bob Henry Finis Garrett Gussie Gardner and a number of other parliamentary sharps to agree to any such statement

It does seem rather small to watch the Senate spend three or four days over the question whether each Senator shall be allowed to spend $60 a year of government funds for telegrams Much sarcasm was used in the debate Senator Borah of Idaho especially was caustic saying that one form of the proposit on was that if he spent $30 in a year the onerous duty of disposing of the other $30 would fall upon him a trust that ought no longer to be reposed in a United States Senator

We trust officials remarked John Sharp Williams a little later but we do not trust them too blamed much

Well we trust our elves replied Borah but we do not trust the other fellow

It must be that quite a number of recommendations and suggestions are made to Congress just to think about There are several such things hanging up such is Postmaster General Burleson s proposition to acquire the telegraph and telephone lines Now that was an suggestion when made there have been a few speeches on the subject and then it goes to sleep A number of other propositions not so big perhaps but of considerable importance have been allowed to gather dust while seemingly more momentous questions are considered in Congress

BRAVE WORK OF THE CREW.

Nearness of Other Destroyers Saved the Aylwin from Worse Disaster

Investigation into the cause of the explosion of the forward boiler of torpedo boat destroyer Aylwin which occurred when the little vessel was 15 miles south of Diamond Shoals and resulted in the death of one of her crew and the serious injury to two others makes it appear that good fortune alone prevented a more serious catastrophe When destroyers Benham and Parker which were near at the time went to the assistance of the Aylwin there was no indication of the serious damage afterward discovered to have been wrought by the bursting of the boiler

It has been found that the plates on the starboard side of the Aylwin were blown off and two of her compartments were flooded with a few minutes after the explosion If the other destroyers prevented a more serious result than the single death and injury of two men and the brave work of the crew of the Aylwin who waded waist deep in the compartments and arranging the bulkheads to withstand the water was of material value in saving the little craft

As soon as the Benham and Parker had made certain that the Aylwin would float a call was sent out for assistance and two battleships engaged in manoeuvres on the southern drill grounds together with tug Sonoma hurried to the scene The injured men were transferred to the Benham and that vessel lost no time in taking them to the naval hospital at Norfolk All the men were frightfully scalded and before they could be treated at the hospital one of them J C Hinman died The other two Barney Glenn and James H Seaton will probably live

The crew of the Benham told a touching story of the heroism of the men of the Aylwin, many of whom dove into the scalding water time and again before they had succeeded in rescuing the injured from their perilous positions

STAMFORD TO NEW HAVEN.

Electric Service Expected to be Extended by June 1 Next

Electric passenger, freight and switching service probably will be established on the New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad between Stamford and New Haven by June 1, according to a statement issued by the company In that event electric service will be available between New Haven and the Grand Central Station in New York The company advises that the overhead contact and distribution system will be completed by that time

Exactly to what extent trains will be operated by electricity upon completion of the work now in progress it is difficult to say the company says The trains to be operated in this manner after that date will be so arranged as to obtain the greatest electric movement consistent with the normal output of electricity from the Cos Cob power house"

Complete electric operation until new power plants have been provided, will depend it is said on the financial condition of the railroad company and the country

NO ACTION ON PHILIPPINES.

Democrats Not Anxious to Push the Independance Measure.

Patriotism or Cowardice—Where Women Vote—Dissatisfaction With Rules of the House.

(Washington correspondence of the News.)

WASHINGTON, April 9.—"Haven't we done enough for one session of Congress?" was the reply of a member of the cabinet when I asked him if the administration had any intention of taking up the bill for independence of the Philippines at this session. A similar question was recently put to the President and he replied that in the midst of many other matters he had rather lost track of the situation regarding the Philippine independence bill. It is still in the committee of insular affairs of the House.

It may be stated that until the President has more information than he had when the national platform declared so earnestly for Philippine independence he will not ask Congress to consider and rush through any such measure.

During Champ Clark's earnest speech for standing by the Democratic national platform, he said that Woodrow Wilson would be re-nominated and re-elected if he made good. "Notwithstanding the platform," remarked a man in the gallery, remembering that the national platform was strong for one term only for a President.

During the discussion about mileage, Congressman Rucker of Missouri, saying that he was a plain, blunt man, remarked that it was difficult to determine whether it was "patriotism or cowardice that was moving the House to reduce the mileage." He also remarked that the proximity of the elections had much to do with the spasm for reducing mileage. "If the elections had been held last month this proposition would not stand a ghost of a chance," he said.

The appropriations committee had brought in a proposition that, instead of 20 cents a mile to be paid to members they were to receive actual traveling expenses for themselves and "dependent members of their families."

"How about a dependent husband?" asked Congressman Bryan, who hails from Washington, where women vote. "There is a woman candidate for Congress in one of the districts in my state, and if elected she is likely to bring her husband with her. Will he be a dependent?"

There is considerable dissatisfaction with the rules of the House, even if they have been "liberalized" since Joe Cannon's day. "Some day," remarked Congressman Deitrick of Massachusetts, "a proposition will be sprung in the House to change those rules so that business can be transacted more expeditiously, and it will go through. We are getting rather tired of having so much time taken by a few members on measures that are sure to pass when they finally get a vote."

"I do not know much about these rules," Congressman Thompson of Oklahoma told the House one day. "I do not care to know much about them. I think the more a man knows about them the less he knows about the real practical affairs of the republic."

But you couldn't get Jim Mann, John Fitzgerald, Bob Henry, Finis Garrett, Gussie Gardner and a number of other parliamentary sharps to agree to any such statement.

It does seem rather small to watch the Senate spend three or four days over the question whether each Senator shall be allowed to spend $60 a year of government funds for telegrams. Much sarcasm was used in the debate, Senator Borah of Idaho especially was caustic, saying that one form of the proposition was that if he spent $30 in a year the onerous duty of disposing of the other $30 would fall upon him, "a trust that ought no longer to be reposed in a United States Senator."

"We trust officials," remarked John Sharp Williams a little later, "but we do not trust them too blamed much."

"Well, we trust ourselves," replied Borah, "but we do not trust the other fellow."

It must be that quite a number of recommendations and suggestions are made to Congress "just to think about." There are several such things hanging up, such as Postmaster General Burleson's proposition to acquire the telegraph and telephone lines. Now that was some suggestion when made; there have been a few speeches on the subject, and then it goes to sleep. A number of other propositions not so big, perhaps, but of considerable importance, have been allowed to gather dust while seemingly more momentous questions are considered in Congress.

Arthur W. Dunn.

BRAVE WORK OF THE CREW.

Nearness of Other Destroyers Saved the Aylwin from Worse Disaster.

Investigation into the cause of the explosion of the forward boiler of torpedo boat destroyer Aylwin, which occurred when the little vessel was 15 miles south of Diamond Shoals and resulted in the death of one of her crew and the serious injury to two others, makes it apparent that good fortune alone prevented a more serious catastrophe. When destroyers Benham and Parker, which were near at the time, went to the assistance of the Aylwin there was no indication of the serious damage afterward discovered to have been wrought by the bursting of the boiler.

It has been found that three plates on the starboard side of the Aylwin were blown off and two of her compartments were flooded within a few minutes after the explosion. The nearness of the other destroyers prevented a more serious result than the single death and injury of two men, and the brave work of the crew of the Aylwin, who waded waist deep in the compartments and arranged the bulkheads to withstand the water, was of material value in saving the little craft.

As soon as the Benham and Parker had made certain that the Aylwin would float a call was sent out for assistance and two battleships engaged in maneuvres on the Southern drill grounds, together with the Scorpion, hurried to the scene. The injured men were transferred to the Benham and that vessel lost no time in taking them to the naval hospital at Norfolk. All the men were frightfully scalded and before they could be treated at the hospital one of them, J. C. Haman, died. The other two, Barney Glenn and James H. Seaton, will probably live.

The crew of the Benham told a touching story of the heroism of the men of the Aylwin, many of whom dove into the scalding water time and again before they had succeeded in rescuing the injured from their perilous positions.

STAMFORD TO NEW HAVEN.

Electric Service Expected to be Extended by June 1 Next.

Electric passenger, freight and switching service probably will be established on the New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad between Stamford and New Haven by June 1, according to a statement issued by the company. In that event electric service will be available between New Haven and the Grand Central Station in New York. The company advises that the overhead contact and distribution system will be completed by that time.

"Exactly to what extent trains will be operated by electricity upon completion of the work now in progress it is difficult to say," the company says. "The trains to be operated in this manner after that date will be so arranged as to obtain the greatest electric movement consistent with the normal output of electricity from the Cos Cob power house."

Complete electric operation, until new power plants have been provided, will depend, it is said, on the financial condition of the railroad company and the country.

LOCAL BRIEFS.

—Mrs. John W. Burgess has returned from a New York visit.

—Mrs. Hermann Oelrichs is at the Muenchinger-King for a short visit.

—The School Committee will have its monthly meeting Monday evening.

—A fine bed of crocuses may be seen on the lawn of Dr. Charles A. Brackett.

—Mr. and Mrs. A. Van Beuren arrived Thursday evening at "Sunnyfields Farm." They will return to New York for Easter.

—Mr. Robertson Honey, son of Colonel Samuel R. Honey, has been appointed United States consul at Madrid.

—Miss Marguerite Sheehan of St. Mary's Seminary, Bay View, is spending the Easter vacation with her mother, Mrs. D. W. Sheehan, on John street.

—The dancing class of 1914 is to give a dance Easter Tuesday at Masonic hall under the direction of the dancing committee. The patronesses will be Mrs. Edward A. Brown, Mrs. Leander K. Carr, Mrs. Albert C. Landers, Jr., Mrs. Edwin P. Robinson, Mrs. John V. Stewart and Mrs. William B. Vernon.

—Senora Donna Alicia Ward de Riano, wife of the Spanish ambassador, came from Washington Thursday to look for a Newport cottage for the summer. The Spanish ambassador and Senora Riano occupied last year the Stockton cottage, which has been rented by Miss Fannie L. Johnson for the coming season.

—If one can call building wrecking artistic such a job is being done at the Taggart place on Broadway. The lumber, being all selected material and well preserved, is being taken down with the least possible waste, the salvage in laths and clapboard being almost total. The lumber is naturally having a ready sale, for it is all shrunk and in some respects better than new material.

—The chain of theatres controlled by the Great Eastern Amusement Company are closed today, Good Friday, and accordingly there are no performances at the Opera House. In years gone by it was customary for many road companies to lay off throughout Lent, while practically none of the houses found that it paid to be open the last week, but things have changed.

—Women of the First Methodist Episcopal Church presented to Mrs. Joseph Cooper this morning a silver creamer and sugar, as a mark of their esteem and affection. The pieces are each six inches high, are of Georgian pattern and were bought of Simpson. The Queen Esthers have also presented to Misses Ruth and Helen Cooper pretty pins, as parting gifts.

It would not be recording the facts as they were if it were not stated that about every one was laughing in a quiet way when the communication were read, but nothing was said.

James Jestings was given a renewal of his eating house license. Nathan Gordon's application for a peddler's license was laid on the table. Alderman Hughes reported on the application of A. Spaniolos & Co. that some changes were deemed necessary by the chief engineer, and the building inspector, and these are now being made.

Bids were opened for the $50,000 loan of the city treasurer in anticipation of taxes. There were seven—Aquidneck National Bank, Newport, 3.23 per cent discount; Blake Brothers & Co., 3.23; R. L. Day & Co., 3.36; Loring, Tollman & Tupper, 3.45; Bond & Goodwin, 3.55; W. A. Read Co., 3.63 plus one dollar; Curtis & Sanger, 3.69. The award was to the Aquidneck National Bank.

Bids were opened for printing the city ordinances. The Mercury Publishing Company asked $4.62 a page and 40 cents for binding; the Milne Printery asked $4.37 a page and 37 cents for binding. The contract is to print 2,500 copies and to bind 500 in sheep. The award was to the Milne Printery.

The deed from J. H. Marks to the city, of the strip of land needed to join Russell and Peckham avenues, was accepted. The city solicitor had already approved it.

The city clerk said that Mr. Towle, representative of the Chamberlin Metallic Weather Strip Company, was present and wished to explain a weather strip which his company is making, which would avoid the use of storm sash. If it would he said it meant a saving of $40 for putting up and taking down storm sash. Mr. Towle was given a hearing.

He had a sample and showed what the contrivance is. He also said it saves because it excludes cold, dust and moisture, and still allows easy moving of the windows. He quoted from various testimonials received in this section, preferring to speak of New England. His company has placed these strips in the naval hospital. A special price was made to the city if it would have the work done before September 1, during the slack time. The matter was taken under consideration.

The street commissioner submitted the specifications for repairs to Briggs wharf and the Van Zandt Avenue pier. He called for a widening of the pier by three feet and told the aldermen that this was contemplated by the Council, but in this he was wrong; all the Council did was to provide money to keep the pier from falling down, it having been neglected. The contract for the Van Zandt Avenue pier was then given to J. K. Sullivan, the lowest bidder, according to the street commissioner.

The street commissioner also had a notice to owners of land on Broadway, that the city is about to make a new roadway on Broadway between Lake's corner and the Mile Corner and that sewer, gas or water connections they may wish made must be made within 30 days, as thereafter no permits will be granted. Mr. Kirby questioned the last part, saying the board grants such permits.

Mr. Kelly said this was an important matter for the city. This city ought, like others, to have an ordinance providing for the laying of service connections to the curb line on all streets permanently improved, and the charging of the cost thereof to the abutting land. It is always noticed that as soon as a street is improved some one desires to enter a sewer or something else, and the street is never the same again. He thought the board should recommend such an ordinanec to the Council.

The street commissioner also spoke on the same line, saying the street is never the same after an opening has been made. He had spoken of this to an owner of land on Broadway and he had agreed to have the street connections for his land made to the curb before the street is improved. The commissioner was authorized to advertise.

Then the board adjourned.

A LANGHORNE BEAUTY.

Death of Mrs. T. Moncure Perkins, One of the Five Sisters.

Mrs. T. Moncure Perkins, who, as Miss Ivy Langhorne, has been known as one of the five Langhorne beauties of Virginia, died suddenly Thursday night at the home of her sister, Mrs Charles Dana Gibson, in New York from apoplexy. She came from her home in Richmond, Va., about four days ago to spend a few days with her sister and brother-in-law. She returned from a shopping tour about 5 o'clock and soon afterward was taken ill, dying two hours later. With Mrs. Perkins when she died were her sisters, Mrs. Gibson and Mrs. Paul Phipps, and Mr. Gibson. She leaves a husband, one son and two daughters.

Albemarle county, Va., and Mr. and Mrs. Chiswell Dabney Langhorne gave to the world the five girls known everywhere as the beautiful Langhorne sisters. Miss Irene, who married the artist, Gibson, is probably the best known, as her husband made her face and figure known wherever illustrations go.

Mrs. Waldorf Astor, who was Miss Nannie Langhorne, and had been married before she made her rich match in England, is almost equally as well known. Miss Nora, the youngest, who married Paul Phipps in New York five years ago this month, came into the public eye because she was the last of the line and her beauty was the freshest. Miss Phyllis became the wife of Reginald Brooks, and they are well known in society circles.

ASTOR'S NEW DINGHY.

Craft Meets Contract Tests for Speed and Endurance.

The new dinghy built for Mr. Vincent Astor at Herreshoffs was given a test Thursday afternoon in Bristol harbor, when the craft equalled the speed and endurance degree of the contract. She will be sent at once to the owner, to be used in connection with Mr. Astor's steam yacht Noma, which is soon to cross the Atlantic.

The boat is full-bodied, high-sided and is driven by an oil-burning motor, which works well. The little craft is about 30 feet in length, with a storm deck forward. She will be hoisted upon the davits of the Noma, which has been having improvements made at Staten Island for the trip abroad.

All persons having claims against said estate are hereby notified to file the same in the office of the clerk of said court within six months from the date of the first advertisement hereof.

Ella B. Fayerweather.

Newport, March 27th, 1914.

AWARDED FOR THREE YEARS.

be suggested to the Council that it should be so equipped.

"With interest

"H. W. Hare Powel."

It would not be recording the facts as they were if it were not stated that about every one was laughing in a quiet way when the communication was read, but nothing was said.

James Jeatings was given a renewal of his eating house license. Nathan Gordon's application for a peddler's license was laid on the table. Alderman Hughes reported on the application of A. Spanlolos & Co. that some changes were deemed necessary by the chief engineer and the building inspector, and these are now being made.

Bids were opened for the $50,000 loan of the city treasurer in anticipation of taxes. There were seven—Aquidneck National Bank, Newport, 3.23 per cent discount; Blake Brothers & Co., 3.33; R. L. Day & Co., 3.36; Loring, Tollman & Tupper, 3.45; Bond & Goodwin, 3.55; W. A. Read Co., 3.61, plus one dollar; Curtis & Sanger, 3.69. The award was to the Aquidneck National Bank.

Bids were opened for printing the city ordinances. The Mercury Publishing Company asked $4.62 a page and 40 cents for binding; the Milne Printery asked $4.37 a page and 37 cents for binding. The contract is to print 2,500 copies and to bind 500 in sheep. The award was to the Milne Printery.

The deed from J. H. Marks to the city, of the strip of land needed to join Russell and Peckham avenues, was accepted. The city solicitor had already approved it.

The city clerk said that Mr. Towle, representative of the Chamberlin Metallic Weather Strip Company, was present and wished to explain a weather strip which his company is making, which would avoid the use of storm sash. If it would he said it meant a saving of $40 for putting up and taking down storm sash. Mr. Towle was given a hearing.

He had a sample and showed what the contrivance is. He also said it saves because it excludes cold, dust and moisture, and still allows easy moving of the windows. He quoted from various testimonials received in this section, preferring to speak of New England. His company has placed these strips in the naval hospital. A special price was made to the city if it would have the work done before September 1, during the slack time. The matter was taken under consideration.

The street commissioner submitted the specifications for repairs to Briggs wharf and the Van Zandt Avenue pier. He called for a widening of the pier by three feet and told the aldermen that this was contemplated by the Council, but in this he was wrong; all the Council did was to provide money to keep the pier from falling down, it having been neglected. The contract for the Van Zandt Avenue pier was then given to J. K. Sullivan, the lowest bidder, according to the street commissioner.

The street commissioner also had a notice to owners of land on Broadway, that the city is about to make a new roadway on Broadway between Lake's corner and the Mile Corner and that sewer, gas or water connections they may wish made must be made within 30 days, as thereafter no permits will be granted. Mr. Kirby questioned the last part, saying the board grants such permits.

Mr. Kelly said this was an important matter for the city. This city ought, like others, to have an ordinance providing for the laying of service connections to the curb line on all streets permanently improved, and the charging of the cost thereof to the abutting land. It is always noticed that as soon as a street is improved some one desires to enter a sewer or something else, and the street is never the same again. He thought the board should recommend such an ordinance to the Council.

The street commissioner also spoke on the same line, saying the street is never the same after an opening has been made. He had spoken of this to an owner of land on Broadway and he had agreed to have the street connections for his land made to the curb before the street is improved. The commissioner was authorized to advertise.

Then the board adjourned.

A LANGHORNE BEAUTY.

Death of Mrs. T. Moncure Perkins, One of the Five Sisters.

Mrs. T. Moncure Perkins, who, as Miss Ivy Langhorne, has been known as one of the five Langhorne beauties of Virginia, died suddenly Thursday night at the home of her sister, Mrs Charles Dana Gibson, in New York from apoplexy. She came from her home in Richmond, Va., about four days ago to spend a few days with her sister and brother-in-law. She returned from a shopping tour about 6 o'clock and soon afterward was taken ill, dying two hours later. With Mrs. Perkins when she died were her sisters, Mrs. Gibson and Mrs. Paul Phipps, and Mr. Gibson. She leaves a husband, one son and two daughters.

Albemarle county, Va., and Mr. and Mrs. Chiswell Dabney Langhorne gave to the world the five girls known everywhere as the beautiful Langhorne sisters. Miss Irene, who married the artist, Gibson, is probably the best known, as her husband made her face and figure known wherever illustrations go.

Mrs. Waldorf Astor, who was Miss Nannie Langhorne, and had been married before she made her rich match in England, is almost equally as well known. Miss Nora, the youngest, who married Paul Phipps in New York five years ago this month, came into the public eye because she was the last of the line and her beauty was the freshest. Miss Phyllis became the wife of Reginald Brooks, and they are well known in society circles.

ASTOR'S NEW DINGHY.

Craft Meets Contract Tests for Speed and Endurance.

The new dinghy built for Mr. Vincent Astor at Herreshoffs was given a test Thursday afternoon in Bristol harbor, when the craft equalled the speed and endurance degree of the contract. She will be sent at once to the owner, to be used in connection with Mr. Astor's steam yacht Noma, which is soon to cross the Atlantic.

The boat is full-bodied, high-sided and is driven by an oil-burning motor, which works well. The little craft is about 30 feet in length, with a storm deck forward. She will be hoisted upon the davits of the Noma, which has been having improvements made at Staten Island for the trip abroad.

NEW YORK LETTER.

Feminine Headgear Copied From Candy Hats the Latest Craze in Gotham.

Fewer Skyscrapers—Savings From Waste—Divorce Increasing—Tango a Nerve Cure.

[Correspondence of The News.]

NEW YORK, April 9.—Feminine headgear copied from candy hats is the latest craze in New York. Popular models of hats are on display in a milliner's window in a fashionable street just off Fifth Avenue, which first took shape in this country in the kitchen of one of New York's leading hotels. They were copies, according to the hotel chef from candy hats fashioned by the pastry chef of the hotel who since early in Lent, has been displaying for the edification of feminine visitors at the Palm Room of the hotel a line of headgear patterned after the latest things from Paris. The chef has a sister who is connected with one of the most fashionable of millinery shops in that city of fashion and expense and she has been sending him designs from which he has fashioned colored sugars into the daintiest confections in the millinery line.

A woman who had recently returned from Paris and was lunching in the hotel several days ago expressed great admiration for the chef's efforts but remarked that she didn't believe he could make a hat like the one he was wearing. This was a particularly dainty and expensive creation. The chef accepted the challenge and made a sketch of the hat. The following day when the woman arrived at the hotel for luncheon the chef appeared and set down before her a faithful copy in candy of the hat she was wearing. She was astonished but charmed and immediately purchased the candy hat explaining that she could not afford to have a copy of her hat.

The other day the chef noticed two women whom he knew to be milliners carrying the candy hats. A little later chancing to pass a millinery shop he was surprised to see the hats that looked familiar. He examined them closely to discover that they had been copied from two of the candy hats which he had made and which in turn had been copied by sketch and description from two that had originated in Paris.

An interesting table has just been issued by the superintendent of buildings of New York showing the heights of the various structures for which plans have been filed during the past year. The noteworthy feature of the summary is not only the great decrease in the number of skyscrapers but also the greater decrease in proportion. In 1913 only 14 buildings over 12 stories high were proposed or 15 per cent of all the new buildings, as against 33 in 1912 or 5.9 per cent. The 12 story buildings decreased in 1913 to 3? (8 per cent of all) from 82 (14.6 per cent of all) in 1912. While there was also a decrease in the number of buildings under seven stories high the increase in the proportion of low buildings is quite marked. The 36 low buildings of 1913 represented 85.2 per cent of all buildings whereas the 327 buildings of 1913 represent 76.8 per cent. The average height of all buildings is 5.4 stories a fact which will doubtless come as a surprise to most persons. Tenements constitute one half of the buildings from seven to 12 stories high and about 40 per cent of all the buildings over six stories high.

The average height of proposed tenements is 6.6 stories. About one half of the fireproof tenements are 12 stories high and most are located in the section of the city known as the West Side. In the table the miscellaneous class has been omitted. This includes 100 structures, 97 being one story high and three of them two stories. These structures are not, strictly speaking, buildings being composed of sheds, outhouses, coal pockets, temporary reviewing stands, etc.

That $700,000,000 a year is made by utilizing waste from factories, mines and mills, is one of the interesting facts brought out recently at the first annual banquet of the Waste Dealers Association. The members of the association are up to date business men, who discovered that millions of dollars are thrown away by the American public in the form of waste. As a result of the utilization of cotton seed hull and of cotton seed until recently more waste products of the cotton crop these items are now valued in the United States at $40,000,000. In 1911 there was exported from the United States cotton rags to the value of over $500,000; paper stock, other than cotton rags, to the value of over $800,000, woolen rags value of over $800,000, scrap iron to the value of $1,000,000, old and to the value of $1,200,000; old and reclaimed rubber to the value of $1,000,000 and scrap brass to the value of over $2,000,000.

The value of the imports of waste material from foreign countries are even more striking. In 1913 this country imported scrap iron to the value of $500,000, old copper to the value of $1,000,000, silk waste to the value of $3,000,000, cotton rags to the value of $3,500,000 and other paper stock which was neither rags nor wood pulp, to the value of nearly $5,000,000.

In the last year 2,417 actions for severance of marital ties were begun in Manhattan and the Bronx, an average of eight a day for the 300 working days in the year. The figures are disclosed in the annual report of the supreme court and show that the number of divorce cases in New York has been growing slowly in the last decade. The following is a summary of the matrimonial judgments rendered during the past year by the supreme court. Annulment, defended, 44; annulment, undefended, 94; divorce, defended, 130; divorce, undefended, 660; separation, defended, 117; separation undefended, 38.

Of the 1,083 judgments rendered only 48 were in cases where the evidence had been taken by referees. The rest were all direct court proceedings. Of the 129 annulments the plaintiffs won in 123, of the 771 divorce cases the plaintiffs won in 755; of the 136 separation cases, the plaintiffs won in 118. These do not include the referred cases. In the annulment cases 94 of the 123 winning plaintiffs were women. In the divorce cases 506 of the 755 winning plaintiffs were women. In the separation cases 107 of the 118 winning plaintiffs were women. Women were the plaintiffs in 707 and the winners in 732 of the 1,083 cases where judgments were rendered in matrimonial suits. They outnumbered the men by two to one.

Ten times as many women as men sought separations, twice as many women as men sought divorces and three times as many women as men sought annulments. There were 782 undefended matrimonial cases in which judgment was rendered.

Not only theatres but sanatoriums are threatened with bankruptcy on account of the dance craze according to one of New York's leading doctors who told a large audience that the tango and maxixe were curing that most common American complaint—nerves. Everybody should dance, he said. It is good for the nerves. The man or woman who has spent the evening dancing, sleeps better and eats better next morning than one who has been shut up in a stuffy theatre for hours. I have noticed a marked decrease in the number of nervous cases among the people who are dancing this year. It is because the new dances appeal to the older, as well as to the young people, that the benefits have been so noticeable, I suppose. The business men and the women who have nothing to do but sit at home and grow fat, they are the ones who need the exercise. Dancing is particularly good for the nerves because of the soothing effect of the rythm."

About 300 women who heard these remarks are members of the parents' league, an association of mothers whose object is to simplify life for the more fortunate children. It is said that this league had intended to bar the new dances from their parties this year, but after hearing the great benefits to be obtained by dancing they decided to lift the ban.

RHODE ISLAND CROPS.

Chickens Higher Than in Other States, Eggs Medium in Price.

Rhode Island compares favorably with other states in New England in the crop report, which has just been issued by the bureau of statistics in co-operation with the Weather Bureau. The report is issued as of April 1, and gives the figures for the first three months of this year, the whole of last year, and the 10-year average.

The state is shown to be a healthy place for animals, and to be a dear place to keep them, according to the report. During the first three months of the year the mortality among the various animals was uniformly less from disease. This does not hold true for cattle, however, for here the loss was 22 per thousand, while most of the other states lost less than this number. The country at large lost 19.8 per thousand.

The price of corn is much higher in this state than in any other, with the exception of Connecticut. Here the price runs to 93 cents a bushel with the price in the Nutmeg State being 99 cents a bushel. The lowest price prevails in Vermont, where it is 77 cents. The average price for corn per bushel during the past 10 years has been 82 cents a bushel here, while it has held around 75 cents in the other New England states. The average in Connecticut has been 73 cents a bushel for 10 years.

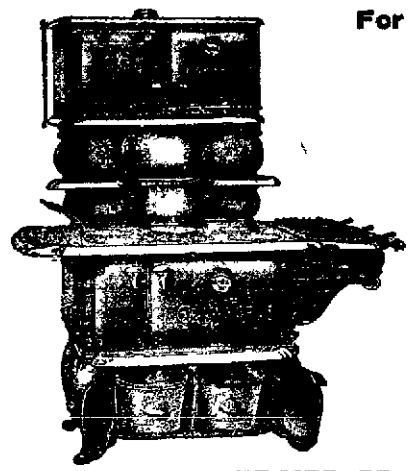

According to the report eggs have never been very high priced in any part of New England, and the prevailing price for the first three months of 1914 is 26 cents here and in Connecticut 27 cents in Massachusetts and 22 cents in the other three states. Last year the average was 24 cents for Rhode Island, and for 10 years the average price has been 22 cents. Chickens are also higher here than in the other five states, the price at this time being 18 cents a pound, according to the report, while last year it was 16.6 cents, and for 10 years the average has been 17.5 cents.

"Staying" Quality

WHEN you buy a horse the important thing is—what will he do, and can he keep it up; not merely what is his price. A horse always looks like a horse, but what is in him cannot always be seen.

This also applies when selecting a fertilizer; they all look alike—but looks don't tell whether they are able to start a crop and keep it growing. Those that won't do it you do not want at any price.

A good fertilizer, like a good horse, has "staying qualities" and these qualities are possible only when the plant feeding elements are rightly balanced, with the right proportion made soluble and ready for rapid assimilation by the plant when it most needs them. When it wants to grow fast it must feed fast, and having made a good growth, must be fed to maturity. A good fertilizer will not forsake the crop half-way through its growing period.

are built on a quality basis; they are made to feed fast and also to hold out; they are made to bring the bushel cost low and the quality high.

In our recent Potato Contests, fifty-three crops in fifty-three different parts of New England, raised by fifty-three different farmers averaged 326.2 bushels per acre. Weather and cultivation differed in each instance; the only condition that was alike in every case was the use of Bowker's Fertilizers. Can you beat such a record? Not with any other fertilizer.

Apply your horse-buying principles, and good "horse sense" in buying your fertilizers. All your life you have known Bowker's Fertilizers and their reputation—this year give your crops a chance to show what they can do in quantity and quality on Bowker's. Your profit can come only from your yield—therefore, you must have able help in the soil. This, Bowker's will give you—and through its use you get quick action and profitable yields.

Only a quality fertilizer can produce a quality crop.

Our Local agents will supply any quantity you desire. If, however, none are in your section write us for further information. Also, ask for our book "Plant Food." No advertising in it. It is helpful and it is sent free.

ECZEMA ON HEAD, ARMS AND FACE

Spread and Itched. Raw Surface When Scratched. On Body Would Scale Off. Cuticura Soap and Ointment Cured in Three Months.

Howland, Maine.—"My little daughter aged thirteen years was troubled with eczema on the head, arms and face. Some of the sores on the head were as large as a penny and one on the inside of the thigh was as large as a quarter of a dollar and that one lasted over a year. The eczema came out like a little red pimple and spread and would itch and when scratched off would be a raw surface and bleed. Then a dirty scaly scab would grow and on the head was the thickness of a thin piece of paste-board, while on the body it would scale off.

"She had this trouble nearly two years when I saw the advertisement of Cuticura Soap and Ointment in the paper and sent for some and the very first application proved its worth. I used the Cuticura Soap with as hot water as could be borne and the Cuticura Ointment after the surface had dried. I used Cuticura Soap and Ointment about three months before she was cured." (Signed) Mrs. J. A. Eldredge, Nov. 7, 1912.

Not only are Cuticura Soap and Ointment most valuable in the treatment of eczemas and other distressing eruptions of skin and scalp, but they are also most effective in the treatment of pimples, blackheads, red, rough skins, itching, scaly scalps, dandruff, dry, thin and falling hair, chapped hands and shapeless nails. Sold by druggists and dealers throughout the world. Liberal sample of each mailed free, with 32-p. Skin Book. Address post-card "Cuticura, Dept. T, Boston."

Men who shave and shampoo with Cuticura Soap will find it best for skin and scalp.

NEW YORK LETTER.

Feminine Headgear Copied From Candy Hats the Latest Craze in Gotham.

Fewer Skyscrapers—Savings From Waste—Divorce Increasing—Tango a Nerve Cure.

[Correspondence of The News.]

NEW YORK, April 9.—Feminine headgear copied from candy hats is the latest craze in New York. Popular models of hats are on display in a milliner's window in a fashionable street just off Fifth Avenue, which first took shape in this country in the kitchen of one of New York's leading hotels. They were copies, according to the hotel chef, from candy hats fashioned by the pastry chef of the hotel who, since early in Lent, has been displaying for the edification of feminine visitors at the Palm Room of the hotel a line of headgear patterned after the latest things from Paris. The chef has a sister who is connected with one of the most fashionable of millinery shops in that city of fashion and expense and she has been sending him drawings from which he has fashioned colored sugars into the daintiest confections in the millinery line.

A woman, who had recently returned from Paris and was lunching in the hotel several days ago expressed great admiration for the chef's efforts, but remarked that she didn't believe he could make a hat like the one she was wearing. This was a particularly dainty and expensive creation. The chef accepted the challenge and made a sketch of the hat. The following day, when the woman arrived at the hotel for luncheon, the chef appeared and set down before her a faithful copy, in candy, of the hat she was wearing. She was astonished but alarmed, and immediately purchased the candy hat, exclaiming that she could not afford to let anybody have a copy of her hat.

The other day the chef noticed two women, whom he knew to be milliners, sketching the candy hats. A little later, chancing to pass a milliner's shop, he was surprised to see two hats that looked familiar. He examined them closely, to discover that they had been copied from two of the candy hats which he had made, and which in turn had been copied by sketch and description from two that had originated in Paris.

An interesting table has just been issued by the superintendent of buildings of New York, showing the heights of the various structures for which plans have been filed during the past year. The noteworthy feature of the summary is not only the great decrease in the number of skyscrapers, but also the greater decrease in proportion. In 1913 only 15 buildings over 12 stories high were proposed, or 3.5 per cent of all the new buildings, as against 33 in 1912, or 5.9 per cent. The 12-story buildings decreased in 1913 to 33 (5 per cent of all) from 82 (14.6 per cent of all) in 1912. While there was also a decrease in the number of buildings under seven stories high, the increase in the proportion of low buildings is quite marked. The 36 low buildings of 1913 represented 65.2 per cent of all buildings, whereas the 327 buildings of 1913 represent 76.8 per cent. The average height of all buildings is 5.4 stories, a fact which will doubtless come as a surprise to most persons. Tenements constitute one half of the buildings from seven to 12 stories high and about 40 per cent of all the buildings over six stories high.

The average height of proposed tenements is 6.6 stories. About one half of the fireproof tenements are 12 stories high, and most are located in the section of the city known as the West Side. In the table the miscellaneous class has been omitted. This includes 100 structures, 97 being one story high and three of them two stories. These structures are not, strictly speaking, buildings, being composed of sheds, outhouses, coal pockets, temporary reviewing stands, etc.

That $700,000,000 a year is made by utilizing waste from factories, mines and mills, is one of the interesting facts brought out recently at the first annual banquet of the Waste Dealers' Association. The members of this association are up-to-date business men, who discovered that millions of dollars are thrown away by the American public in the form of waste. As a result of the utilization of cotton-seed oil and of cotton seed, until recently more waste products of the cotton crop, these items are now valued in the United States at $50,000,000. In 1913 there was exported from the United States: Cotton rags to the value of over $500,000; paper stock, other than cotton rags, to the value of over $500,000; woolen rags to the value of $1,000,000; scrap iron to the value of $1,200,000; old and reclaimed rubber to the value of $1,600,000 and scrap brass to the value of over $2,000,000.

The value of the imports of waste material from foreign countries are even more striking. In 1913 this country imported scrap iron to the value of $500,000; old copper to the value of $1,000,000; silk waste to the value of $3,000,000; cotton rags to the value of $2,000,000 and other paper stock, which was neither rags nor wood pulp, to the value of nearly $5,000,000.

In the last year 2,417 actions for severance of marital ties were begun in Manhattan and the Bronx, an average of eight a day for the 300 working days in the year. The figures are disclosed in the annual report of the supreme court and show that the number of divorce cases in New York has been growing slowly in the last decade. The following is a summary of the matrimonial judgments rendered during the past year by the supreme court: Annulment, defended, 44; annulment, undefended, 94; divorce, defended, 120; divorce, undefended, 669; separation, defended, 117; separation, undefended, 38.

Of the 1,083 judgments rendered only 43 were in cases where the evidence had been taken by referees. The rest were all direct court proceedings. Of the 129 annulments the plaintiffs won in 123; of the 771 divorce cases the plaintiffs won in 755; of the 136 separation cases, the plaintiffs won in 118. These do not include the referred cases. In the annulment cases 94 of the 123 winning plaintiffs were women; in the divorce cases, 596 of the 755 winning plaintiffs were women; in the separation cases, 107 of the 118 winning plaintiffs were women. Women were the plaintiffs in 707 and the winners in 732 of the 1,083 cases where judgments were rendered in matrimonial suits. They outnumbered the men by two to one.

Ten times as many women as men sought separations, twice as many women as men sought divorces, and three times as many women as men sought annulments. There were 782 undefended matrimonial cases in which judgment was rendered.

Not only theatres, but sanatoriums, are threatened with bankruptcy on account of the dance craze, according to one of New York's leading doctors, who told a large audience that the tango and maxixe were curing that most common American complaint—nerves. "Everybody should dance," he said. "It is good for the nerves. The man or woman, who has spent the evening dancing, sleeps better and eats better next morning than one who has been shut up in a stuffy theatre for hours. I have noticed a marked decrease in the number of nervous cases among the people who are dancing this year. It is because the new dances appeal to the older, as well as to the young people, that the benefits have been so noticeable. I suppose. The business men and the women who have nothing to do but sit at home and grow fat, they are the ones who need the exercise. Dancing is particularly good for the nerves because of the soothing effect of the rythm."

About 300 women who heard these remarks are members of the parents' league, an association of mothers whose object is to simplify life for the more fortunate children. It is said that this league had intended to bar the new dances from their parties this year, but after hearing the great benefits to be obtained by dancing they decided to lift the ban.

RHODE ISLAND CROPS.

Chickens Higher Than in Other States, Eggs Medium in Price.

Rhode Island compares favorably with other states in New England in the crop report, which has just been issued by the bureau of statistics in co-operation with the Weather Bureau. The report is issued as of April 1, and gives the figures for the first three months of this year, the whole of last year, and the 10-year average.

The state is shown to be a healthy place for animals, and to be a dear place to keep them, according to the report. During the first three months of the year the mortality among the various animals was uniformly less from disease. This does not hold true for cattle, however, for here the loss was 22 per thousand, while most of the other states lost less than this number. The country at large lost 19.8 per thousand.

The price of corn is much higher in this state than in any other, with the exception of Connecticut. Here the price runs to 93 cents a bushel, with the price in the Nutmeg State being 99 cents a bushel. The lowest price prevails in Vermont, where it is 75 cents. The average price for corn per bushel during the past 10 years has been 92 cents a bushel here, while it has held around 75 cents in the other New England states. The average in Connecticut has been 73 cents a bushel for 10 years.

According to the report, eggs have never been very high priced in any part of New England, and the prevailing price for the first three months of 1914 is 26 cents here and in Connecticut, 27 cents in Massachusetts and 22 cents in the other three states. Last year the average was 24 cents for Rhode Island, and for 10 years the average price has been 28 cents. Chickens are also higher here than in the other five states, the price at this time being 18 cents a pound, according to the report, while last year it was 16.5 cents, and for 10 years the average has been 17.5 cents.

"Staying" Quality

WHEN you buy a horse the important thing is—what will he do, and can he keep it up; not merely what is his price. A horse always looks like a horse, but what is in him cannot always be seen.

This also applies when selecting a fertilizer; they all look alike—but looks don't tell whether they are able to start a crop and keep it growing. Those that won't do it you do not want at any price.

A good fertilizer, like a good horse, has "staying qualities" and these qualities are possible only when the plant feeding elements are rightly balanced, with the right proportion made soluble and ready for rapid assimilation by the plant when it most needs them. When it wants to grow fast it must feed fast, and having made a good growth, must be fed to maturity. A good fertilizer will not forsake the crop half-way through its growing period.

are built on a quality basis; they are made to feed fast and also to hold out; they are made to bring the bushel cost low and the quality high.

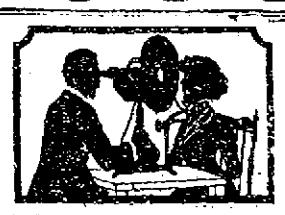

In our recent Potato Contests, fifty-three crops in fifty-three different parts of New England, raised by fifty-three different farmers averaged 326.2 bushels per acre. Weather and cultivation differed in each instance; the only condition that was alike in every case was the use of Bowker's Fertilizers. Can you beat such a record? Not with any other fertilizer.

Apply your horse-buying principles, and good "horse sense" in buying your fertilizers. All your life you have known Bowker's Fertilizers and their reputation—this year give your crops a chance to show what they can do in quantity and quality on Bowker's. Your profit can come only from your yield—therefore, you must have able help in the soil. This, Bowker's will give you—and through its use you get quick action and profitable yields.

Only a quality fertilizer can produce a quality crop.

Our Local agents will supply any quantity you desire. If, however, none are in your section write us for further information. Also, ask for our book "Plant Food." No advertising in it. It is helpful and it is sent free.

ECZEMA ON HEAD, ARMS AND FACE

Spread and Itched. Raw Surface When Scratched. On Body Would Scale Off. Cuticura Soap and Ointment Cured in Three Months.

Howland, Maine.—"My little daughter aged thirteen years was troubled with eczema on the head, arms and face. Some of the sores on the head were as large as a penny and one on the inside of the thigh was as large as a quarter of a dollar and that one lasted over a year. The eczema came out like a little red pimple and spread and would itch and when scratched off would be a raw surface and bleed. Then a dirty scaly scab would grow and on the head was the thickness of a thin piece of pasteboard, while on the body it would scale off.

"She had this trouble nearly two years when I saw the advertisement of Cuticura Soap and Ointment in the paper and sent for some and the very first application proved its worth. I used the Cuticura Soap with as hot water as could be borne and the Cuticura Ointment after the surface had dried. I used Cuticura Soap and Ointment about three months before she was cured." (Signed) Mrs. J. A. Eldredge, Nov. 7, 1912.

Not only are Cuticura Soap and Ointment most valuable in the treatment of eczemas and other distressing eruptions of skin and scalp, but they are also most effective in the treatment of pimples, blackheads, red, rough skins, itching, scaly scalps, dandruff, dry, thin and falling hair, chapped hands and shapeless nails. Sold by druggists and dealers throughout the world. Liberal sample of each mailed free, with 32-p. Skin Book. Address post-card "Cuticura, Dept. T, Boston."

Men who shave and shampoo with Cuticura Soap will find it best for skin and scalp.

SANDS HAS EASY TASK.

Wins from Russell in Final Amateur Court Tennis Match.

Charles E. Sands of New York won the final match in the amateur court tennis championship of the United States Thursday at the Racquet and Tennis Club and thereby earned the right to play Jay Gould, the present title holder, in the challenge round. Mr. Sands did not have a very hard task before him, winning by three sets to one from Charles T Russell of the Boston Tennis and Racquet Club. The score was 6-3, 4-6, 6-1, 6-3.

Mr. Russell did not play as good a match as was generally expected. He seemed to have lost much of the vim and dash which he displayed the day before when he put W. H. T. Huhn out of the running. Possibly the long five-set match against the Philadelphia man late in the afternoon before helped to take the edge off his play. At any rate, he seemed to move about in a rather listless fashion, and Mr. Sands looked like a winner practically from the start.

Mr. Sands, who was the champion of this country in 1905, before he lost the title to Jay Gould, played his usual steady game, and was always full of confidence. He varied his pace nicely and timed his strokes to perfection. It was skill and strategy more than speed which brought him the victory.

Mr. Sands scored many of his points by placing the ball close to the floor just below the grille, where Mr Russell would be obliged to use his back hand. The Boston man was good at that with his back-hand strokes, and, in fact, his all-round work with the bat looked as finished as that of his rival, but he was lacking in the tactics and execution of the veteran by quite a margin.

Following the amateur singles matches there was a special treat for the members in a four-handed match between the American doubles champions, Jay Gould and W. H. T. Huhn of the Philadelphia Racquet Club, and the Honorable Neville Lytton and George F. Covey, the British amateur and his professional. The Americans won in straight sets in the easiest sort of fashion by a score of 6-1, 6-2, 6-3.

SANDS HAS EASY TASK.

Wins from Russell in Final Amateur Court Tennis Match.

Charles E. Sands of New York won the final match in the amateur court tennis championship of the United States Thursday at the Racquet and Tennis Club and thereby earned the right to play Jay Gould, the present title holder, in the challenge round. Mr. Sands did not have a very hard task before him, winning by three sets to one from Charles T. Russell of the Boston Tennis and Racquet Club. The score was 6-3, 4-6, 6-1, 6-3.

Mr. Russell did not play as good a match as was generally expected. He seemed to have lost much of the vim and dash which he displayed the day before when he put W. H. T. Huhn out of the running. Possibly the long five-set match against the Philadelphia man late in the afternoon before helped to take the edge off his play. At any rate, he seemed to move about in a rather listless fashion, and Mr. Sands looked like a winner practically from the start.

Mr. Sands, who was the champion of this country in 1905, before he lost the title to Jay Gould, played his usual steady game, and was always full of confidence. He varied his pace nicely and timed his strokes to perfection. It was skill and strategy more than speed which brought him the victory.

Mr. Sands scored many of his points by placing the ball close to the floor just below the grille, where Mr. Russell would be obliged to use his back hand. The Boston man was good at that with his back-hand strokes, and, in fact, his all-round work with the bat looked as finished as that of his rival, but he was lacking in the tactics and execution of the veteran by quite a margin.

Following the amateur singles match there was a special treat for the members in a four-handed match between the American doubles champions, Jay Gould and W. H. T. Huhn of the Philadelphia Racquet Club, and the Honorable Neville Lytton and George F. Covey, the British amateur and his professional. The Americans won in straight sets in the easiest sort of fashion by a score of 6-1, 6-2, 6-3.

Daniels s Order Barring Liquors is For the Good of the Navy.

To the Editor of the Daily News

I am glad to see that the News does not join in what seems to me to be the unthinking clamor over the really up to-date order of Secretary Daniels in regard to indulgence in intoxicating liquors on board ship and at naval stations If it were not a custom dating back to or before the ancient days when Noah came ashore from the ark settled down to raising grapes and got drunk and disgraced the human race and Lot was made drunk by his daughters in order to accomplish their ends this drinking of what s now rightly recognized as s n would be regarded as something altogether beneath the dignity of any man who desired to be a man Science has stamped it as a drug producing a most dangerous and destructive disease Even in small quantities its results are destructive to body mind and soul Why should a man tamper with it and lead others into temptation?

I was talking with some one whom I understand has seen service in both army and navy and knows how an enlisted man is punished if even a small quantity of liquor is found around him while the officers have been allowed to have their drinks openly If it is subversive of discipline for a private to have a little where he must take it sparingly on the sly how can it be all right for the officers to have all they see fit to take when they see fit to take it As I understand it Secretary Daniels s order is largely in the line of the old saying What s sauce for the goose is sauce for the gander That is to say those who would enter the navy in any capacity should place efficiency first Since the Kaiser is on the water wagon and the best men of the other European nations are falling into line why not be prepared to join them Does the United States want other navies to whip us just because some people may be attached to drink and unwilling to give it up when other navies are making the attempt

Moreover the movement in the United States today is largely backed by the big business interests More and more the man who takes only a little finds his services are less desired than those of the total abstainer when he seeks work Corporations find they can not afford to run the risks of employing men who drink The enormous waste of money and manhood has brought the boards of trade openly to support the effort to banish liquor A conspicuous proof of this was seen in Providence recently when three boards of trade of large cities many miles away gave a free lunch to Rhode Island business men and had a free consideration of the great advantages in every way to business to be derived from no-license as proved by the wealth intelligence and push of states which have tried it In New York a striking poster has been issued in two colors its wording based on the twenty sixth annual report of the Massachusetts Bureau of Labor being as follows Think This Over Drink causes one fifth of our insanity one fourth of our poverty one half of our crime and you pay the bill' Is this good business

No 2, With a Strange Engineer, Gives Pretty Exhibition With Ordinary Steam

That Newport has one steamer which can maintain a real fire-fighting pressure on one line of hose was shown Thursday evening to the committee on fire department Newport s infant No 4 made this record while the old Twos with a strange engineer gave one of her prettiest exhibitions and showed herself capable of one ordinary fighting stream This evening the Fives will be on the carpet at 6 30 but just why the committee are wondering The Fives boiler has been condemned by the Board of Firewards and a new one recommended and on that recommendation the Representative Council has made an appropriation, so that the committee appears to feel that until that boiler is installed the steamer is out of the running except for a great emergency They will be on hand however to see what she can do in the condition in which she is which is admitted by Chief Kirwin to be better than that of the Ones

Owing to the illness of Engineman Pike Engineer Joseph Brown of the Ones was in charge of Steamer 2 when she arrived at City wharf just before 6 30 The eccentric which was responsible for a complete failure last year was set all right this time and she seemed to be steaming well Deputy Chief Lawton said Wait until you have 100 pounds of steam and then hold it there When the hand on the gauge pointed right the throttle was opened and the engine gave a couple of turns and stopped It was discovered that she was pound because of closing the outlet gate after the engineer had opened it

The gate opened the engine started to pump and for the required 20 minutes plugged away without a stop The fire box door did not seem to fit any too well but she held the steam well up toward the mark right through in fact at times showed a decided picking up despite the drain of pumping and the keeping open of the fire box door for periods Her best record tabulated was steam 95 water 140 pressure at the nozzle 93 pounds

The latter is a usual hydrant pressure in many places For a single pump machine the showing was considered good but it was again noticed that Engineer Brown was carrying but little water in his boiler and thus assisting the steaming The coal gave much better results than that used the previous evening and while some said it all came out of the same bin others thought otherwise The committee say the matter of good or poor coal is not up to them it is up to the department officials to see that they are prepared for duty and having suitable coal is a part of such preparation

Steamer 4 was next to make her debut and appeared to be in fit condition Indeed, it would seem as it members of the company had gone a little further than usual and made some quiet preparations to save themselves from failure because of poor coal When this steamer worked overtime at the Plymouth fire she was supplied with particularly fine cannel coal and some of this was taken to the station and carefully stored away for special occasions it having come from outside the city s supply It was not admitted that this coal was used Thursday but some of those who watched the firing suspected strongly that there was a judicious mixing of a high grade material and that which the city furnishes

The steamer repeatedly held 100 pounds of steam with the door wide open while she was pumping Her best recorded pressures were 9a steam 195 water and 145 at the nozzle Higher points were reached but the records were taken every two minutes at the three different places so that comparisons can be made and the actual work of the engine figured up

The committee will not attempt to work out the results from the readings taken Wednesday night because they were so poor that they are not considered worth while Steamer 2 pumped an average of 327 7 gallons a minute and No 4 580 gallons during the 20 minute run of each These amounts are small in these days when the thousand-gallon pump is the common thing but of course a large amount could not be expected to be thrown through a single 7/8 inch nozzle Why two lines of hose were not used was not explained to the committee

The wind blew the smoke and sparks off the wharf so that those who assembled to see the sight were not made uncomfortable Still the wind was cold and the ground damp and an hour and a half on the wharf made one feel a little chilly

AWARDED FOR THREE YEARS.

Contract for Gas Street Lights Again Goes to Cleveland Vapor Company.

Communication Regarding Chief Kirwin's Use of His New Automobile

At the Board of Aldermen weekly meeting Thursday evening several things were done The contract for gas street lights was given to the Cleveland Vapor Light Company, the same firm which has furnished such lights for about 15 years and for three years The fact that the court ruled that the board could give a contract only for such time as money is appropriated did not figure The contract for printing the City Ordinances went to the Milne Printery Mr Burdick counsel for the Providence electric road objected to the notice served on the road to change the style of rail on Third street and from what he said it is evident that he proposes to fight even a change of grade on a street on which the grade has been established unless the city pays The whole railroad matter was referred to the city solicitor

The expected happened Many had been looking for it and wondering just how it was going to take place and finally it happened Of course this refers to Chief Kirwin and his automobile and the rides he gives various citizens and citizenesses to which attention was called in a communication Everybody laughed

There was a good sized gallery in attendance and the meeting was held in the aldermanic chamber all being present but Alderman Hanley who is out of town

As Mr Newbold of the Cleveland Vapor Light Company was present in relation to the bid on the gas street lighting that was taken up first There was but one bid from Mr Newbold s company The specifications called for the price per light per night This made a fraction which Mayor Boyle acknowledged was something of a poser but Mr Newbold came to the aid of every one by stating that the prices bid were for one year $27 74 per light per year for three years $25 per light per year and for five years $24 75 per light per year This he said is 30 cents per year less than the present price on the three year bid and 80 cents less on the five year bid For the old lamp posts which the city has and which will be replaced by the new display posts the company offered $3 each They are not standard so the bid stated or more could be paid

Accompanying the bid was a letter from the company expressing its satisfaction with the manner in which for the past 15 years the business had been conducted to the satisfaction alike of the city and the company and after the bid had been read Mr Newbold had something to say It was that under the new contract the contractor is to light and extinguish all lights which means an additional cost of about $ 00 per year The price bid is 50 cents less per light per year than that now paid a difference for the city of about $500

At present he could not say just how the company would work on the lighting and extinguishing but for the immediate future boys will be used as now to light Eventually some of the automatic lighters will be used but how many would depend on the result of inquiries The company has about 8 100 of these lighters in use in various cities and it is likely that for the scattered lights some would be installed in Newport The cost is large and the company will light otherwise when it is cheaper

Alderman Hughes asked if any provision had been made for an inspection of the lights to see that they are working He said the city does not pay for lights not burning but would prefer to have them lighted than to receive the rebate Mr Newbold said such inspection is the duty of the city The company desires to have the lights burning and if there is any trouble eventually Mr Ayles worth the company s local representative would know of it The matter of inspection to see if the lights are burning according to contract seemed to belong to the city In Baltimore there is a superintendent of street lights gas and electric who has to assist him and in most cities there is a superintendent of street lights Mayor Boyle said the police being relieved of the need of extinguishing the street lights could easily see whether they are burning and report just as they do now

A bond for $15 000 accompanied the bid which was made on one of the new city blanks containing the specifications The bid also provided that the city should have the use of 100 ornamental lamp posts during the contract but the price the city would pay to retain these was not read

The city solicitor looked over the bid and the bond and approved both, and the contract was awarded to the Cleveland Vapor Light Company for three years, at $25 per light per year This is the price now supposed to be in effect but now the police extinguish the lights and under the new contract the contractor will do this

Messrs Sheffield and Burdick representing the Bay State and the Newport & Providence railroads, with representatives of the companies were present and Mayor Boyle took up the railroad matters next The first was the order to the Newport & Providence to change the T rail on Third street to a grooved rail of 90 pounds Mr Burdick objected to this He said the company has a franchise which is granted by ordinance and there is a contract between the city and the railroad The rail now in use has been approved and so has the location of the rails He did not see how the city had any right to order the railroad at great expense to change this rail after it had been accepted and approved He also spoke of the change of grade and said that once a grade has been established it cannot be changed without notice to abutters and the giving of opportunity to make objections The grade of Third street was he understood established and it was a question if it could be changed at cost to his company without his company securing damages He called for an opinion from the city solicitor

The city solicitor said that while this matter had come up in the board some days ago it had not been referred to him and he had not looked it up He thought that no matter how anxious the street commissioner is to go ahead the legal part of the matter should be carefully considered

The Board referred the notices to the railroad companies both as to Third street and as to Broadway to the city solicitor

The regular payrolls were approved for the following sums Streets and highways $1 459 24 police $994 68 fire department $547 24 city officers $285 13 firemen in theatres $28

The acceptance by the Newport & Fall River Street Railroad Company of the grant of the right to build a conduit was received

A resolution was passed authorizing the city treasurer to pay to the order of the commandant of the Training Station the $3 500 appropriated by the Council to pay for the enlargement of the sewerage system at the government hospital

The following communications were read

To the Honorable Board of Aldermen

The enclosed note was handed to me by H W Hare Powel a citizen and taxpayer to be presented either before the Board of Aldermen or the Representative Council Inasmuch as your body meets every week and the Council only occasionally I have deemed it fitting to present it to the former

My dear Garrettson Referring to our recent conversation in which you agreed with me that the chief of the Newport Fire Department was to be seen constantly going about the streets of the city of Newport with all sorts and conditions of people some by their sex probably not employes of the city and all with such frequency that it is very questionable whether or not this use of the city s automobile apparatus is a legitimate one I write this to ask you as a member of the Representative Council to look into the matter and if possible to inform me what mileage the chief s automobile shows or should it not be provided with a registering odometer then it should

Daniels's Order Barring Liquors is For the Good of the Navy.

To the Editor of the Daily News:

I am glad to see that the News does not join in what seems to me to be the unthinking clamor over the really up-to-date order of Secretary Daniels in regard to indulgence in intoxicating liquors on board ship and at naval stations. If it were not a custom dating back to or before the ancient days when Noah came ashore from the ark, settled down to raising grapes, and got drunk and disgraced the human race, and Lot was made drunk by his daughters in order to accomplish their ends, this drinking of what is now rightly recognized as a poison would be regarded as something altogether beneath the dignity of any man who desired to be a man. Science has stamped it as a drug producing a most dangerous and destructive disease. Even in small quantities its results are destructive to body, mind and soul. Why should a man tamper with it, and lead others into temptation?

I was talking with some one whom I understand has seen service in both army and navy, and knows how an enlisted man is punished if even a small quantity of liquor is found around him, while the officers have been allowed to have their drinks openly. If it is subversive of discipline for a private to have a little where he must take it sparingly, on the sly, how can it be all right for the officers to have all they see fit to take, as often as they see fit to take it? As I understand it, Secretary Daniels's order is largely in the line of the old saying: "What's sauce for the goose is sauce for the gander." That is to say, those who would enter the navy in any capacity should place efficiency first. Since the Kaiser is on the water wagon, and the best men of the other European nations are falling into line, why not be prepared to join them? Does the United States want other navies to whip us just because some people may be attached to drink and unwilling to give it up, when other navies are making the attempt?

Moreover, the movement in the United States today is largely backed by the big business interests. More and more the man who takes only a little finds his services are less desired than those of the total abstainer, when he seeks work. Corporations find they can not afford to run the risks of employing men who drink. The enormous waste of money and manhood has brought the boards of trade openly to support the effort to banish liquor. A conspicuous proof of this was seen in Providence recently, when three boards of trade of large cities many miles away gave a free lunch to Rhode Island business men and had a free consideration of the great advantages, in every way, to business, to be derived from nolicense, as proved by the wealth, intelligence and push of states which have tried it. In New York a striking poster has been issued in two colors, its wording, based on the twenty sixth annual report of the Massachusetts Bureau of Labor, being as follows: "Think This Over!" Drink causes one fifth of our insanity, one fourth of our poverty, one half of our crime, and you pay the bill! Is this good business?"

ONE WORKMAN INJURED.

The second floor of the old Sheffield building on the new police station site collapsed this morning. With its fall the chimney came down, and one of the Brava negroes working on this opposite side of the building received an injured back in the fall he took. He was taken into the police station, where a physician attended him and it was stated that he would be at work again in a day or two.

The beams do not appear to have been nailed at all, some are pinned with wooden pins and some devoid of pins. It was in prying one of these beams that the locking stick of the floor seems to have been displaced. The western side of the building was pulled out off its brick wall, and the chimney which was carried on the second floor of course lost its support and participated in the general tumble.

SHOWS NO CHANGE.

Physician Will Not Say Whether Illness of Bishop Harkins Causes Apprehension.

The condition of Bishop Harkins, who has been ill at the episcopal residence in Providence for several days, has shown no perceptible change for the better, according to those in close touch. The attending physician says the bishop is suffering from a bad cold. When asked if the bishop had la grippe, he said that was a leading question which he would not answer at present. Wednesday's bulletin was not wholly satisfactory, but he did not say whether or not the condition of the bishop was such as to excite apprehension.

BOTH STEAMERS L.

No. 4 Maintains Real Fire Fighting Pressure on One Line of Hose.

No. 2, With a Strange Engineer, Gives Pretty Exhibition With Ordinary Steam.

That Newport has one steamer which can maintain a real fire-fighting pressure on one line of hose was shown Thursday evening to the committee on fire department. Newport's infant, No. 4, made this record, while the old Twoa, with a strange engineer gave one of her prettiest exhibitions and showed herself capable of one ordinary fighting stream. This evening the Fives will be on the carpet at 8:30, but just why the committee are wondering. The Fives' boiler has been condemned by the Board of Firewards and a new one recommended, and on that recommendation the Representative Council has made an appropriation, so that the committee appears to feel that until that boiler is installed the steamer is out of the running except for a great emergency. They will be on hand, however, to see what she can do in the condition in which she is, which is admitted by Chief Kirwin to be better than that of the Ones.

Owing to the illness of Engineman Piks, Engineer Joseph Brown of the Ones was in charge of Steamer 2 when she arrived at City wharf just before 6:30. The eccentric which was responsible for a complete failure last year was set all right this time and she seemed to be steaming well. Deputy Chief Lawton said: Wait until you have 100 pounds of steam and then hold it there. When the hand on the gauge pointed right the throttle was opened and the engine gave a couple of turns and stopped. It was discovered that she was bound, because of closing the outlet gate after the engineer had opened it.

The gate opened, the engine started to pump and for the required 20 minutes plunged away without a stop. The fire box door did not seem to fit any too well, but she held the steam well up toward the mark right through; in fact, at times showed a decided picking up despite the drain of pumping and the keeping open of the fire box door for periods. Her best record tabulated was steam 95, water 146, pressure at the nozzle 93 pounds.

The latter is a usual hydrant pressure in many places. For a single pump machine the showing was considered good, but it was again noticed that Engineer Brown was carrying but little water in his boiler and thus assisting the steaming. The coal gave much better results than that used the previous evening, and while some said it all came out of the same bin others thought otherwise. The committee say the matter of good or poor coal is not up to them; it is up to the department officials to see that they are prepared for duty, and having suitable coal is a part of such preparation.

Steamer 4 was next to make her debut and appeared to be in fit condition. Indeed, it would seem as if members of the company had gone a little further than usual and made some quiet preparations to save themselves from failure because of poor coal. When this steamer worked over-time at the Plymouth fire she was supplied with particularly fine cannel coal, and some of this was taken to the station and carefully stored away for special occasions, it having come from outside the city's supply. It was not admitted that this coal was used Thursday but some of those who watched the firing suspected strongly that there was a judicious mixing of a high grade material and that which the city furnishes.

The steamer repeatedly held 100 pounds of steam with the door wide open while she was pumping. Her best recorded pressures were 95 steam, 135 water and 145 at the nozzle. Higher points were reached, but the records were taken every two minutes at the three different places, so that comparisons can be made and the actual work of the engine figured up.

The committee will not attempt to work out the results from the readings taken Wednesday night, because they were so poor that they are not considered worth while. Steamer 2 pumped an average of 327.7 gallons a minute and No. 4 380 gallons during the 20-minute run of each. These amounts are small in these days, when the thousand-gallon pump is the common thing, but of course a large amount could not be expected to be thrown through a single ¾ inch nozzle. Why two lines of hose were not used was not explained to the committee.

The wind blew the smoke and sparks off the wharf, so that those who assembled to see the sight were not made uncomfortable. Still, the wind was cold and the ground damp, and an hour and a half on the wharf made one feel a little chilly.

Contract for Gas Street Lights Again Goes to Cleveland Vapor Company.

Communication Regarding Chief Kirwin's Use of His New Automobile.

At the Board of Aldermen weekly meeting Thursday evening several things were done. The contract for gas street lights was given to the Cleveland Vapor Light Company, the same firm which has furnished such lights for about 15 years, and for three years. The fact that the court ruled that the board could give a contract only for such time as money is appropriated did not figure. The contract for printing the City Ordinances went to the Milne Printery. Mr. Burdick counsel for the Providence electric road, objected to the notice served on the road to change the style of rail on Third street, and from what he said it is evident that he proposes to fight even a change of grade on a street on which the grade has been established, unless the city pays. The whole railroad matter was referred to the city solicitor.

The expected happened. Many had been looking for it and wondering just how it was going to take place, and finally it happened. Of course this refers to Chief Kirwin and his automobile, and the rides he gives various citizens and citizenesses, to which attention was called in a communication. Everybody laughed.

There was a good-sized gallery in attendance and the meeting was held in the aldermanic chamber, all being present but Alderman Hanley, who is out of town.

As Mr. Newbold of the Cleveland Vapor Light Company was present in relation to the bid on the gas street lighting that was taken up first. There was but one bid, from Mr. Newbold's company. The specifications called for the price per light per night. This made a fraction which Mayor Boyle acknowledged was something of a poser, but Mr. Newbold came to the aid of every one by stating that the prices bid were, for one year $27.74 per light per year, for three years $25 per light per year, and for five years $24.75 per light per year. This he said is 55 cents per light per year less than the present price on the three-year bid and 80 cents less on the five-year bid. For the old lamp posts which the city has, and which will be replaced by the new display posts, the company offered $3 each. They are not standard, so the bid stated, or more could be paid.

Accompanying the bid was a letter from the company, expressing its satisfaction with the manner in which for the past 15 years the business had been conducted to the satisfaction alike of the city and the company, and after the bid had been read Mr. Newbold had something to say. It was that under the new contract the contractor is to light and extinguish all lights, which means an additional cost of about $2,700 per year. The price bid is 55 cents less per light per year than that now paid, a difference for the city of about $500.

At present he could not say just how the company would work on the lighting and extinguishing, but for the immediate future boys will be used, as now, to light. Eventually some of the automatic lighters will be used, but how many would depend on the result of inquiries. The company has about 3,100 of these lighters in use in various cities, and it is likely that for the scattered lights some would be installed in Newport. The cost is large and the company will light otherwise when it is cheaper.

Alderman Hughes asked if any provision had been made for an inspection of the lights, to see that they are working. He said the city does not pay for lights not burning, but it would prefer to have them lighted than to receive the rebate. Mr. Newbold said such inspection is the duty of the city. The company desires to have the lights burning, and if there is any trouble eventually Mr. Aylesworth, the company's local representative, would know of it. The matter of inspection, to see if the lights are burning, according to contract seemed to belong to the city. In Baltimore there is a superintendent of street lights, gas and electric, who has 10 assistants, and in most cities there is a superintendent of street lights. Mayor Boyle said the police, being relieved of the need of extinguishing the street lights, could easily see whether they are burning, and report, just as they do now.

A bond for $15,000 accompanied the bid, which was made on one of the new city blanks containing the specifications. The bid also provided that the city should have the use of 150 ornamental lamp posts during the contract, but the price the city would pay to retain these was not read.

The city solicitor looked over the bid and the bond and approved both, and the contract was awarded to the Cleveland Vapor Light Company for three years, at $25 per light per year. This is the price now supposed to be in effect, but now the police extinguish the lights and under the new contract the contractor will do this.

Messrs. Sheffield and Burdick, representing the Bay State and the Newport & Providence railroads, with representatives of the companies, were present and Mayor Boyle took up the railroad matters next. The first was the order to the Newport & Providence to change the T rail on Third street to a grooved rail of 90 pounds. Mr. Burdick objected to this. He said the company has a franchise which is granted by ordinance and there is a contract between the city and the railroad. The rail now in use has been approved, and so has the location of the rails. He did not see how the city had any right to order the railroad, at great expense, to change this rail after it had been accepted and approved. He also spoke of the change of grade and said that once a grade has been established it cannot be changed without notice to abutters and the giving of opportunity to make objections. The grade of Third street was, he understood, established and it was a question if it could be changed at cost to his company without his company securing damages. He called for an opinion from the city solicitor.

The city solicitor said that, while this matter had come up in the board some days ago, it had not been referred to him and he had not looked it up. He thought, that no matter how anxious the street commissioner is to go ahead, the legal part of the matter should be carefully considered.

The Board referred the notices to the railroad companies, both as to Third street and as to Broadway, to the city solicitor.

The regular payrolls were approved for the following sums: Streets and highways, $1,459.24; police, $991.68; fire department, $547.24; city officers, $285.73; firemen in theatres, $28.

The acceptance by the Newport & Fall River Street Railroad Company of the grant of the right to build a conduit was received.

A resolution was passed authorizing the city treasurer to pay to the order of the commandant of the Training Station the $3,500 appropriated by the Council to pay for the enlargement of the sewerage system at the government hospital.

The following communications were read:

"To the Honorable Board of Aldermen:

"The enclosed note was handed to me by H. W. Hare Powel, a citizen and taxpayer, to be presented either before the Board of Aldermen or the Representative Council. Inasmuch as your body meets every week and the Council only occasionally, I have deemed it fitting to present it to the former.

"Respectfully,
"Frederick P. Garrettson."

"My dear Garrettson: Referring to our recent conversation, in which you agreed with me that the chief of the Newport Fire Department was to be seen constantly going about the streets of the city of Newport with all sorts and conditions of people, some of the sex probably not employes of the city, and all with such frequency that it is very questionable whether or not this use of the city's automobile apparatus is a legitimate one, I write this to ask you as a member of the Representative Council to look into the matter, and if possible to inform me what mileage the chief's automobile shows, or, should it not be provided with a registering odometer, then it should
